THE FUTURE OF CHINA AND THE JAPANESE PROGRAMME

What kind of Government do the Japanese want in China? United central administration—weak federated government—or no government at all. In order to stimulate enthusiasm for the war (and the sale of bonds) the Japanese have set the stage for numerous important pronouncements—after the fall of Hankow. First, they planned the creation of a "united" puppet set-up in Peiping, but opposition developed, so the Army created a so-called "Committee To Prepare for the Merger," and left it at that pending the outcome of military developments on the Yangtsze. Then along came one Bunroku Yoshioka with another idea about a "federated" government. It all comes under the heading of "counting chickens prior to the hatching process," but it makes interesting reading—in this week's issue (Oct. 8) of The China Weekly Review.

In Commemoration of the National Anniversary — October 10

Other articles in this issue include John Ahlers on the significance of the industrial move toward the Southwest; Resignation of Ugaki and creation of the China Organ in the Tokyo Cabinet; America in the Orient, by Maurice Votaw; Awakening of the Giant, a notable article by Nym Wales; Present situation at Hankow, by K. J. Eskelund; What the United States should do about the Orient, by Dr. Emory W. Luccock; The first trip of the U. S. Flag to the Orient, by Verne Dyson; China and Japan—After the War, by Nugent Rugge; and a number of other interesting articles and news summaries. More than 50 pages and an interesting historical map.

SECOND VOLUME OF "DAY-TO-DAY RECORD OF THE WAR" READY SHORTLY

Vol. II of the "Day-to-Day Record of Japan's War in China will be ready shortly. It will be somewhat larger than the first volume, and will complete the record of the war for the (first) year. The cost of Vol. II will be $2. Both volumes may be obtained for $3.50.

If you are not a regular subscriber for The Review send to the nearest news-stand for this week's issue (Oct. 8). Then send us an order for a regular subscription—$12 in China, including postage. Send orders to the undersigned.

Who is Jehovah?:

The Polite Art of Debate

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Here is the second—improved—edition of my conditions for discussion:

(1) I do not allow a man wearing a mask to enter my house; (anonymity).
(2) I do not speak to people, who hide behind a screen; (anonymity).
(3) I do not engage in fight with people hiding behind an ambush (anonymity).
(4) I do not answer to people who show distinctive evidences of mental aberration, as does your correspondent HAMARTLOS.
(5) In any useful, as contrasted with empty, discussion, the important thing is not to establish who is right; (this is a subjective and egotistical attitude), but what is true. (this is an objective and profitable attitude).

Questions touching on religion are always important, hence I must add: it would be easy for me to prove, and prove it from the New Testament, that Jesus of Nazareth was neither holy nor sinless; but as most of your readers are (nominal) Christians and not a few of them are sincere and devout ones, I will not do so, for fear of wounding their religious feelings. For we Buddhists are not, like the Christian missionaries, bigoted, intolerant, full of hatred and venom, as the letter of HAMARTLOS, for instance. In fact, these are the special characteristics of Christian Missionaries, and have been throughout the ages. And since HAMARTLOS is evidently a Christian missionary,—his letter, spitting hatred and pouring forth lot of nonsense, proves this—I may indulge in the luxury of quoting for him something from Sophocles; which in roman characters, is transcribed:

"Oti an ti genétai, ta pant' onou skia."

This is eminently applicable to his letter.

The rules by which the correspondence columns of this journal are conducted are decided solely by the Editor. The Abbot is seeking to make his own. That will not be allowed, and if this fails to meet with his ideas he will probably realize the alternative which, is best indicated at this stage by the announcement that this correspondence is now closed.—ED.

Plague of Ants:

A Plea for Assistance

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—The undersigned would appreciate if any one of your readers could supply him with information on effective means whereby ants can be exterminated.

His house is at present infested by ants which collect in packs on spots in the house where food is kept. Intensive application of Flit has so far failed to produce the desired results.

The Trams:

A Passenger's Complaint

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I have read several letters in todays N.C.D. News, referring to the conditions prevailing re Bus services. May I be permitted, being a daily tramcar user, to complain about the filthy state in which the cars are kept. Chinese passengers are allowed, without interference of the conductors, to put their feet on the seats, spitting whenever they feel like it, and as well known, that is very often, the cars are generally overcrowded, not to mention the never ending passing of third class passengers through the first class compartment. When it is raining every tram I have ridden and am riding in, has been and is still leaking, showing that the roofs of the trams are badly in need of repair, but, evidently, the management does not care a tut for the comfort of their passengers, they know too well we have to use their cars whether we like it or not as we are too poor to afford any other means of transportation. I have written not one but many letters about the poor treatment we are getting from the Tram Management, but the results have always been nil. How about it, are there no other passengers who have courage enough to support me?

DISGUSTED TRAM PASSENGER

Shanghai, Oct. 7.

Recipe for Peace:

A Mother's Conversion

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Last night I picked up a story book about war. The country in jeopardy attempted to seek peace by sending one beautiful girl to the chief of the invading tribe. There was indeed peace for some time. But later on inevitable was the fighting and onslaught.

This morning the letter from "All For Peace" reminds me the words my mother told me in my teens: Don't fight with that big boy. If he teases you again, go to his parents and complain. It is better to get hurt just a little than to get a great deal of it." What a Chinese philosophy! But my mother's viewpoint changed completely since the outbreak of hostilities. She feels proud when one of her sons joined the cause six months ago, realizing for the first time in her life that this is the only way out.

Peace will not be found if you try to find it. Uphold justice, have a human heart, maintain honour and good faith, prepare to fight when your own country is not in the wrong, —then peace will come when you do not bear it so much in your mind. This is at least a lesson China today has to learn.

PEACE WITH A PRICE.

Shanghai, Oct. 8.

Sincerity:

Or a Lack of It?

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I notice in a cabled message from Tokyo a day or two ago that "Japan's Minister of War has cabled to the Inspector-General of the Polish Army his expressions of cordial respect and congratulations on the occasion of the successful transfer of the Teschen territory to Poland." This, of course, was in return for the notification made by the Polish representative in Tokyo that Poland will not apply sanctions to Japan in the present little "incident" in China.

It sounds very nice, but personally I doubt if Japan's Minister of War could explain where Teschen is located, or could give a really intelligent explanation as to what has led up to the transfer of the region.

And by the way, Sir, I have not heard of any Power having yet cabled the Japanese Minister of War congratulations on the capture of any of the cities in the Yangtze Valley, and on the wonderful exhibitions of the civilizing methods adopted by Nippon's army and navy. Of course, that may be due to a "lack of sincerity." I wonder!

Effort to Avoid Czech Plebiscites

Berlin Commission Asks Both Sides to Refrain

Berlin, Oct. 8.

The International Commission has recommended to both Germany and Czechoslovakia that plebiscites should be avoided in those Sudeten regions not included in the five zones to be fully occupied by the Reich by October 10, authoritative quarters here stated today.

Plebiscite voting will therefore take place only if both parties agree to it or if they cannot directly agree upon the fate of the disputed areas, it is added.—Havas.

Poles Charge of Plebiscite

Warsaw, Oct. 8.

The Polish delegation which left for Prague yesterday is understood to have been entrusted to negotiate directly with the Czech Government on the cession of half of the Frydek district. It is claimed that the delegation will try to avoid, if at all possible, any appeal for a plebiscite.—Havas.

U.S. Red Cross Ships Flour to Spain

Hoboken, N.J., Oct. 7.

The American Red Cross Society announced today that its first shipment of 60,000 barrels of flour consigned to Spanish non-combatants was on board the Maritime Commission's ss. Independence Hall which sails tomorrow.

The State Department advised the Society, Red Cross officials said, that 3,000,000 Spaniards face starvation during the coming months. The Red Cross shipment, it was estimated, would last 25,000 families three months.—United Press.

Peace Pledge Union Makes Proposal

The pacifist organization, the Peace Pledge Union, made an unusual proposal to the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, today, offering to send 5,000 pacifists into the Sudeten regions to "put into practice methods of non-violence." The Union has as yet received no reply from Mr. Chamberlain.—Havas.

Lesson Sermon

First Church of Christ, Scientist.

"ARE SIN DISEASE, AND DEATH REAL?" is the subject of the Lesson Sermon read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on October 9. Golden Text:—Jeremiah 30:17. "I will restore health unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the Lord."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing: for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert." (Isaiah 35: 5,6.)

The Lesson Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—"The harmony and immortality of man will never be reached without the understanding that Mind is not in matter. Let us banish sickness as an outlaw, and abide by the rule of perpetual harmony,—God's law. It is man's moral right to annul an unjust sentence, a sentence never inflicted by divine authority."

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS" OF OCTOBER 11, 1878

The complaint of our correspondent, whose letter appears in another column, that any person, whether holding a certificate of competency or not, may be placed in command of any British ship in China or Japan, certainly seems to deserve attention. There is no reason why rules found to act well in other parts of the world should be relaxed in China, and the very fact that incompetent men find it impossible under present forms to obtain employment elsewhere, will naturally tend to draw them to China, where commands can be obtained on such easy terms. Our correspondent points out that the local insurance offices are largely interested in upholding the standard of seamanship; but beyond this, there are the considerations of safety to the lives of crews and passengers to be taken into serious account. It seems like an undoing of all the recent legislation on the subject of shipping, to depart from so useful a device as that of requiring official certificates of competency. The sentence of a Naval Court suspending or confiscating that certificate is at present a severe punishment in cases of incompetency; but if no certificate at all be needed, an enquiry into the causes of a disaster will be nothing more than a farce, so far as the position of the shipmaster is concerned.

Japanese Honours List Tell of Local "War" Deeds of Bravery

Tokyo, Oct. 8.

Honours for 5,450 Army officers and privates and 71 Navy officers and seamen who sacrificed themselves for the country in the China hostilities were announced by the Bureau of Decorations of the Cabinet on Friday afternoon. It was the fourth time such awards have been made.

A semi-annual special festival will be held on October 18 at the Yasukuni military shrine wherein the nation's war heroes are enshrined.

The late Lt.-Cmdr. Hajime Tanaka was decorated with the Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite and Fourth Class Order of the Rising Sun.

A leader of a bombing unit, Lt.-Cmdr. Tanaka took the initiative in bombing Nanking on September 25, 1937. Since then he downed 60 Chinese planes in southern China until he was killed on February 25 of this year in a raid on Nanchang. His unit of bombers fought 50 Chinese combat planes, 37 of which were downed, Japanese authorities claimed. He was famed for his prowess in "hell-diving."

The Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite and the Fifth Class Order of the Rising Sun were awarded to the late Lt.-Cmdr. Ryohei Shioda, who was killed after shooting down five Chinese planes over Nanchang in a fight with more than ten Chinese craft on his way back to his base on January 1 of this year. He shot down two planes in the combat.

The same decoration was awarded to the late Lt.-Cmdr. Takashi Kaneko, who had been active in Central and South China as a pilot of a combat plane. He died after downing Chinese planes over Hankow Feb. 13 of this year. He was credited in Japanese statements with shooting down eighteen craft on that day.

Woosung Fighting Recalled

The War Office announced a fourth honour list of the officers and privates who distinguished themselves during the hostilities.

Those decorated included Capt. Kiichi Yamaguchi, who received the Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite and Fourth Class Order of the Rising Sun. He was the commander of a front line company from the time of its operations at Woosung, near Shanghai, until the capture of the Paoshan Forts.

Lt.-Col. Hichiro Iida received the Third Class Order of the Golden Kite and the Third Class Order of the Rising Sun; Major Seikichi Nakamura, the Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite and the Fourth Class Order of the Rising Sun, and Capt. Yoshio Yamaki, the Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite and the Fourth Class Order of the Rising Sun.

They succeeded in driving Chinese soldiers from a military highway north of the Kung-da Cotton Mill in Yangtzsepoo at the start of the hostilities round the Shanghai area, and defended the Kung-da aerodrome, the only air base then in existence for the use of the Japanese Navy and Army.

Jukong Wharf Renamed

Jukong Wharf was renamed Iida Wharf in honour of Lieut.-Col. Iida. Their action opened a line between Shanghai and Woosung.

Major Yoshio Sakai was given the Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite and the Fourth Class Order of the Rising Sun. He was among those who aided an attack on a Chinese position by spanning Sutung Creek with an improvised bridge. Subsequently the Japanese won an important victory.

Major Shogo Kogane received the Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite. He was killed after making a brilliant record for bravery at Yanghangchen and Tazang.

Majors Yoshizo Ozuka and Shinzo Kawana were awarded the Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite. The former was among those who captured a Chinese stronghold at Yu village; this victory led to the fall of Yanghangchen and Yangmujao.

Major Chuhei Sato, who received the Fourth Class Order of the Golden Kite and Fourth Class Order of the Rising Sun, died after making a sortie on fortifications along Soochow Creek.—Domei.

Normandie Sister Ship To be Built

Designed to Cross Atlantic In Four Days

New York, Oct. 8.

The general manager of the French line here announces that a sister-ship to the Normandie, capable of crossing the Atlantic in four days, and costing £12,000,000 sterling, is to be built. The ship, he stated, will be ready in 1942.

A special garage, he declared, would be built aboard the ship, accommodating 100 cars.—Reuter.

Dr. Hu Shih Pays Call On Mr. Welles

Washington, Oct. 7.

Accompanied by the new Chinese Embassy Counsellor, Mr. Chang Lukchen, the recently appointed Chinese Ambassador to Washington, Dr. Hu Shih, paid a courtesy call on Mr. Sumner Welles, Under Secretary of State, today. Dr. Hu Shih, who will take the place of Dr. C. T. Wang, will not call on President Roosevelt until he will be in possession of the official credentials. The credentials are expected here shortly from Chungking.—United Press.

Unknown Men Now Rule Soviet Army, Navy

Successive "Purges" Take Off Leading Personalities

Moscow, Oct. 7.

Recent changes, through execution or arrest in the Red Army's higher commands, have placed upon the shoulders of relatively unknown men the task of directing the giant Soviet military machine in the event of war.

Of the leaders of the army, navy and air force of a year ago, only two remain. They are Marshal Klementii Voroshiloff, Commissar of Defence, and Marshal Vassilii Bluecher, Commander of the Far Eastern Army. Repeated rumours say Marshal Bluecher has fallen into disgrace and at present is said to be under strict surveillance in Moscow.

Gen. Boris Mikhailovich Shaposhikov replaced Gen. A. I. Yegorov as Chief-of-Staff. Admiral P. A. Smirnov replaced Admiral V. M. Orlov as head of the navy. Gen. Alexander Dmitrievitch Loktionov became head of the air force, replacing Gen. Jacob Alksnis, and Gen. I. F. Fedko succeeded to the position of Marshal Tukhachevsky as First Vice-Commissar of Defence.

All the new appointees are of proletarian origin with the exception of M. Shaposhnikov, who was a Czarist officer who early joined the revolution. Despite their previous relative obscurity their biographies show long service of notable character in the Red Army, and with the exception of M. Smirnov, excellent qualifications for their posts. Although he heads the Navy, M. Smirnov's experience has been exclusively on land, but he is particularly well qualified politically, an important consideration in the Soviet viewpoint.—United Press.

The first four-way contract in the history of the company has been given to Lionel Atwill by 20 Century-Fox, this week. Terms of the agreement provide that Atwill be ready to serve the studio as actor, writer, director or associate producer. As yet he has not been assigned to a new picture.

WOMAN'S PAGE
A Mayfair Notebook

By Philine

London, Sept. 16.

London may not yet have ousted Paris from her well-earned place in the sun as leader of the world's fashions, but she is a worthy rival for the title. Each season sees more attention given to her fashion contributions and buyers from the continent of Europe as well as from America now flock to London twice a year for British designers' spring and autumn dress shows.

Queen Elizabeth's tastes in dress are widely followed abroad, and it is significant of her great influence upon women outside her own country as well as within that American buyers dare not return to the United States with samples of our autumn styles until they have heard which ones the Queen favours. At the moment they are awaiting this news before they take the boat home.

The Queen is spending part of her holiday in Scotland in looking over some new weaves of woollen fabric specially designed for her new wardrobe selection. Black does not suit her too well and white is not really suitable for every occasion in London. But an interesting compromise has been found in mixtures of grey which make up novel shades for tweeds, laces, silks and a supple type of wool marocain.

Though grey is the basis of the new colour mixtures, the dominant shade is "shot," sometimes with blush pink, sometimes with blue, jade or primrose. This does not mean, however, that it loses its main characteristic. Needless to say the Queen is delighted with the possibilities opened up by our ingenious manufacturers.

The Colour Chart

As far as dress colours are concerned, this is to be a pink, red and purple year. Even the browns have an undercurrent of red in them, and are mahogany or chocolate rather than ginger or nigger. When navy appears in the fashion scheme, it is mixed with red so that it makes a blackberry colour. Black will be an important main colour, but it must be allied to red, pink or wine if it is to be fashionable.

Yellow, specially in its lime or silvery tones, is definitely in the news; but ochre, tan and orange are right out of favour for the coming months. And green takes on the soft grey tones of moss and lichen against plum colour or dark red. So say the London fashion dictators. With the result that we are getting out our cyclamen lipsticks, investing in a pinker cast of powder and adopting the warm fruit colours in our clothes.

Introducing the Christy Wave

The visit of Kenneth Christy, known in the United States as the "Miracle Barber," has aroused a great deal of interest in town. At the Dorchester Hotel, where he has been staying, he demonstrated the Christy Wave on the straightest-haired models he could find and then went to work at a famous West-End store. Here, I understand, he takes his customers into a cubicle where there are no mirrors on the walls, so his secret is safely guarded. All we know of the Christy method of waving hair is that he uses a comb, some water and scissors. In a month or two the natural waves begin to appear. And they do not wash out.

It was ten years ago that Mr. Christy began experimenting on his idea of making permanent waves with scissors and comb. Now the "Miracle Barber" is on the way to making a million dollars out of it. His fellow hairdressers may well be worried lest he revolutionize the whole permanent waving industry.

According to Mr. Christy: "Every member of the white races has a natural wave in his or her hair." He says: "Hair waved in my way can be cut in the ordinary way. We advise, however, that the ends should be curled by ordinary permanent waving. This finishes the job off perfectly." The "perfect job" is done for a charge of £5.

Evening Headdresses Are Practical

One might think that no evening headdresses were necessary, now that curls adorn the top of the head. As a matter of fact, evening headdresses are more plentiful and varied than ever they were. When the hair is dressed high, it often needs something to keep the curls and coils in place and a ribbon bow, or flowers may serve a practical as well as a decorative purpose.

A happy notion is to set two large velvet flowers in front of your top curls in the evening. Two large daisies may be attractive and give the appearance of one of those small evening hats which are so fashionable in Paris. Or, wear one or two large upstanding tulle bows which should take up the colour, or colours, in your frock.

Black velvet bows are worn at the back of the head, hold upswept curls in position and match ribbon bows on a party frock. A little band of flat flowers set on top of a hair comb, just under your curls, also fulfils the double mission of keeping the straight upswept hair tidy and adding to the ornamental effect of the coiffure.

Quick Changes

Visitors to the television exhibition at Olympia this year crowd to see the fashion parades which are daily televised. While all marvel at the latest instruments and admire or otherwise the gorgeous array of frocks seen upon the television screen, few realize that a word of praise might be given to the mannequins who wear them. Yet they should be highly praised and particularly by menfolk who firmly believe that women "take all day" to change their frocks.

These girls at Radiolympia, who must of course appear perfectly groomed and calm before the camera, are indeed quick-change artists. One of them has 50 yards to go to her dressing-room from the set and 50 yards to go back to the camera. In the interval of going and returning, she must take off one frock and put on another. She completes the change in exactly two minutes and three seconds!

But the record change of dress—this time the set was nearer the dressing-rooms, so that there was less distance to run—is 27 seconds! The organizers of Olympia's television fashion parades are Harold Plaister and Ken Eggar, both ex-racing motorists. What they don't know about speed just isn't worth knowing. They time every change with their racing stop-watches, so that the parade is really continuous.

Clothing Waxworks

Mr. Charles Laughton has been looking to his wardrobe, taking out his oldest pair of grey flannel trousers, a woollen pullover, and sending the lot to Madame Tussaud's. For film-star Laughton is to be made into wax and put into the famous exhibition. Mr. Tussaud insisted on having the actual clothes which the star had worn. "Clothes," he said, "take on the personality of the wearer and whenever possible I use dresses and suits that have been worn by the subject."

It seems that Marlene Dietrich was thus induced to part with her favourite gown which now hangs on the wax effigy of the glamorous Dietrich in Madame Tussaud's. Katharine Hepburn gave up the frock she wore in the film, "The Little Minister," so that her wax model might be as near the original as possible. Quoting Mr. Tussaud again: "Even shoes have to be worn before I'll put them on my models."

In one way and another, they cause Mr. Tussaud a great deal of trouble. Even when he has made photographic likenesses and dressed them with the greatest of care, work on them is not finished for all time. The originals change their way of dressing, grow older. Children seem to present the most difficulties. Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, for instance, are growing up so quickly, that their effigies have to be constantly remodelled.

Fluffy and feminine spells chic this season. Miss Virginia Grey demonstrates the mode with a small black felt peaked turban topped with a fluffy silver fox pom-pom and a flowing fine veil falling to the shoulders.

Lining a Skirt

Thin Silk Does Not Increase Weight

Thin, loosely woven tweed skirts not only keep their shape and "sit" better but they also wear longer if lined. When a silk weighing not more than an ounce or an ounce and a half is chosen for the purpose the increased heaviness is almost unnoticeable. For the usual pleated back and front type take two pieces of yard-wide silk about three inches longer than the length of the finished lining, turn and press a hem at the lower edges, and make and press box pleats, the size of those on the skirt, up the middle. Lay the skirt flat on a table, place one piece of silk, on it, fit its pleat into that of the skirt, and hem the lining, easing it the while, to the skirt hem, near the top. Tack or pin the silk pleat to the middle seam of the skirt. Should there be a dart in the skirt, make one in the lining to correspond, tack the lining to the side seam and to the waist and sew, allowing plenty of play, the lining to the top of the skirt pleat.

Line the second half in the same manner and hem the front breadth over the back one, catching it at the seams without letting the stitches come through to the front. Remove the superfluous part of the silk pleat and make a seam along the seam at the front of the skirt. Replace the belt and press the pleats heavily.

New Fashions in Wool

"An Adventurous Frame of Mind"

Wool for all hours of the day and night was the theme of a fashion parade sponsored by the International Wool Secretariat at Claridge's Hotel, London, recently.

Dr. Clunies Ross, in an opening speech, said that the fashion show was the first step in a great forward movement to convince not only the wholesalers and retailers, but the general public, that the wool industry today was in an adventurous frame of mind.

The editor of "Vogue" had selected a number of models for the coming winter season from representative wholesale fashion houses, and these were shown in the new autumn colours and also in plaids and checks used with skill and in some instances with a certain amount of humour for practical garments. Buyers from the leading retail houses were present at the parades.

Evening gowns and dinner gowns showed unexpected ideas in the uses of wool: an evening dress in a rich deep blue wool jersey and a coat of pink wool with the roll back sleeves repeating the blue was attractive. A dark blue wool jersey dinner dress had a bolero in hydrangea wool. A black wool jersey short-sleeved dinner dress had a necklace design in gold leaf inset embroidery and there was a charming frock in smudge-grey wool with a low corseletted waistline and a purple belt.

The sports clothes were an important group and a number of firms showed winter sports clothes on practical and novel lines. Country clothes and travelling coats showed bold use of over-checks and plaids. Heather colourings in tweeds and clever combinations of colours added interest to the designs of useful suits and three-pieces.

The clothes shown at the parades proved that those who appreciate the warmth and comfort of wool can indulge their preferences at all hours without losing the support of first-class designers and manufacturers. Comfort and dowdiness are no longer synonymous. Wool can camouflage its usefulness and look like fur, silk, or velvet or be itself in fine or hearty materials.

To prevent fruit pie from becoming soggy underneath, place the sugar to be used well in the centre of the fruit and not near the top of the pie, where it comes in contact with the pastry. A good idea is to raise the pastry at both ends of the pie and thus allow a passage for steam to escape during the cooking process.

News for Women

Dark green table glass will be fashionable this winter. It looks good with a shallow centre-piece massed with mixed flower heads made from china in natural colours. There is a great vogue for this form of decoration now.

Pianos now match the colour scheme of the rooms in which they are placed.

I have seen a piano painted pale blue, for a pale blue and grey room, a coffee-beige one in an off-white and oatmeal-coloured drawing-room. In another drawing-room the cream and gold piano goes with the walls and the brocade sofa covers.

To keep ants out of the sugar tin, take a piece of fly-paper about one inch wide and put it firmly round the tin close to the bottom. The legs of the kitchen safe can be treated the same way, only keep the fly-paper well up from the floor, otherwise dust and fluff will adhere and the ants will be able to get across.

Mrs. C. H. Westbrook, of the staff of the University of Shanghai, will give a lecture on Tuesday, October 11, after the customary tea at 4 p.m. at the American Women's Club, her subject being "Han, Tang and Sung Porcelains." Mrs. Westbrook's talk, which will be under the auspices of the Literary Department, will be the more interesting for the display of numerous specimens of old Chinese porcelain.

On Tuesday, October 18, at 4.45 p.m. there will be a most interesting programme. The first part will consist of musical numbers by Miss Fausta Sahavora, pianist, and Mr. Hsu, violinist, both of whom are well known in their respective spheres. Immediately following there will be a rhythmic exercise exhibition by Dr. Schwartz and her pupils. Dr. Schwartz is a newcomer to Shanghai from the United States and will demonstrate the latest approved methods of "keeping fit." Preceding the programme the membership committee will meet at 2.45 p.m., and the Executive Board at 3 p.m. As usual tea will be served at 4 o'clock.

How To Make Up To New Season's Dress Colours

Correct Shades In Face Powder; Lipstick And Eye Shadow

How to make up becomingly for the new season's colours, and broad-brimmed high hats that cast a deep shadow over the upper features, will be among the first of the beauty requirements this autumn. As a general beauty maxim it may be said that white and light colours are usually becoming to the rich golden rose of a clear, tanned skin.

In bright sunlight all complexion tones may be strengthened. When the darker hues of autumn and winter are being worn make-up should be lighter in tone; the typically English complerion, clear and delicately tinted, is an ideal. Make-up should be harmonized carefully to suit a special colour scheme in dress.

Autumn Chart

To provide cunningly blended tints in powders and cosmetics for every type of beauty colouring is the province of beauty specialists. An autumn chart gives some interesting suggestions for make up for the new fashion colours. Blonde, brunette, the auburn and the silvery haired have each their own beauty tints in powders, rouge, lipstick and eye shadow.

Complexion tints for the new blues. storm blue, blue tarn and moonstone are as follows:

For blonde and for silver hair a medium lipstick and rouge, the blonde using an English peach powder, the white-woman a medium tinted powder for day and a rose rachel in the evening.

For the very young there is lipstick and cream or compact rouge in a natural shade, used with English peach powder. When there is auburn colouring vivid is chosen for lipstick and rouge, with English peach powder. Cherry lipstick with a deep rachel powder is suggested for the brunette.

With mist pink, sere brown and the red browns that will be in vogue cherry is suggested for the blonde, with medium rachel powder, the brunette and red-head using medium tinted cosmetics with a rachel powder. The very young should choose natural lipstick with English peach powder.

Clover, Bacchus red, prune and the blue-reds all need a medium tint in cosmetics for each type, except the very young when natural is used. In powders a medium rachel for blondes and red-heads, and English peach for other colourings.

Star Shades

Yellow browns and mustard, "star" fashion colours, are not always easy to wear. With these, and for the new greens, especially beagle green, glade and berberis, brunettes and women with auburn hair should choose poppy lipstick and rouge, with a deep rachel powder for the brunette, and a rose rachel for women with auburn colouring.

Fair haired women should choose vivid lipstick with a medium tint of rachel powder. These complexion hints apply also when colour ensembles in bracken and copper brown tones are chosen.

With Wide Brims

Eyeshadow becomes more important when wide brimmed felt hats are in fashion. Subtle tints of eyeshadow, azure, violet and moss green are designed to bestow a touch of allure that may be lost otherwise under the wide brim of a dark felt hat. As a general rule when green is worn moss green eye shadow is suggested, violet for the sere and red browns and azure or violet when a shade of blue is chosen.

Remember that all beauty is marred when make-up is applied too heavily. Delicate and really beautiful as the colour tone of modern cosmetics can be, the hand that wields them must be light and sure.

The modern test is that the complexion must be natural in tint and tone. This is not always easy to achieve, and when make-up is applied allowance must be made for the fact that a mirror reflects colour in a lower tone.

Home Beauty Regime

No make-up is ever successful unless the skin is kept in a healthy condition, and a simple home beauty regime is one of the most important rules in all complexion care. This should include cleansing with a liquefying cleansing cream every night after washing, toning the face and throat up with an astringent if needful, and massage with a good skin food.

A little time given to patting around the eyes, which helps to ward off lines caused by eyestrain, and a stroke movement for brow massage should be included in the regime. This checks any tendency to brow lines which can spoil the look of youth.

What Every Woman Should Know

From the dawn of actual womanhood until past middle-age, the physical changes to which all women are subject, impose a heavy strain upon the kidneys. Similarly, at critical periods and during the months before and after childbirth, the kidneys have a great amount of additional work to do. It is little wonder, then, that women so frequently suffer with backache, bearing-down pains, rheumatic twinges, dropsical swellings, dizzy sensations, faintness, depression, nervousness, and irregularities of the urinary system.

For women should realise that upon the kidneys devolves the vital task of filtering harmful poisons from the blood. If the kidneys are weak or overtaxed, these poisons infest the bloodstream, thereby upsetting the entire system and causing lumbago, gravel, inflammation of the bladder, rheumatism, sciatica and other painful disorders.

Every kidney sufferer will find Doan's Backache Kidney Pills a blessing in time of need. They are recommended by many grateful, understanding women who owe recovery and comfort solely to the use of this honest kidney medicine.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

THE DOUBLE TENTH

There are two ways of looking at an anniversary such as today's—the Double Tenth, the birthday of the Chinese Republic. There are undoubtedly those who will aver that never in the history of post-imperial China has this country experienced so depressing a day, while there are others who will contend that despite the gloom, which has to be admitted, never was there a more promising occasion. And neither outlook is completely right nor wrong. A survey of a map of this country, showing how much of it the Japanese have overrun,—but not yet effectively occupied,—must inspire a feeling of despondency amongst Chinese. So much has passed into the hands of the Japanese invaders, so much has been alienated, even if only temporarily from the control of its own people. With but few exceptions the history of the campaign in China since the last national day has been one of successive military defeats. That was, perhaps, inevitable, for massed against the infinitely better trained and equipped Japanese forces, were the Chinese, whose chief armament was an undying devotion to their country, weak enough physical armour against the material forces which have been arrayed against them. With such equipment the Chinese have for nearly fifteen months fought what amounts to a rearguard action,—with all the depressing effect such should have on national morale,—with a stubbornness which has amazed and continues to amaze foreign observers. They have attained a certain, and by no means unimposing degree of success. The short campaign, which at its commencement was hoped by the Japanese would bring the Chinese Government to its knees, has been transformed into a long one, the end of which does not yet appear to be in sight: the Japanese timetable has been time and again delayed by the fighting ability of the comparatively poorly fitted Chinese troops, and Japanese military commitments in China have been multiplied to an extent, which, it is perfectly apparent from Japanese utterances at the commencement of hostilities, was never anticipated. Thus, though the Chinese have to accept the story which a survey of the map conveys, and it is indeed a gloomy one, they have the satisfaction, for whatever it is worth, of knowing that from a military point of view they have acquitted themselves right well against great odds.

Thus the pessimist needs to readjust his appreciation of the values disclosed in the present military situation. Looking at it from the optimist's point of view, it has to be admitted that the chief values to be taken into consideration are in the main spiritual. From 1911 to 1927 despite the success of the revolution, the prevalent disunion was clear indication that whatever a large number of Chinese might have though concerning the continuance of the imperial regime, the country was neither republican in outlook nor imbued with a wholesome national spirit. It is doubtful whether at any time the Chinese paid much more than lip service to the republican ideal, but with the establishment of the National Government, there was evidenced the commencement of the growth of a national spirit, demonstrated largely by outbursts of xenophobia, catholic in its application, until Japanese policies in China centred it against themselves. Misdirected though that tendency undoubtedly was, it was the glimmerings of the instinct of nationalism which has been brought into full efflorescence during the past fifteen months. Today the Chinese have been welded into a common bondage owing to an external influence, and there can be no denying the fact that the Chinese are at the present moment more conscious of themselves as a nation than they have been for a very long time past. That is a very important psychological factor to be taken into account when endeavouring to forecast future tendencies. The Japanese cannot hope to secure complete success until they have imposed their will upon the Chinese, and so long as military achievement fails to impress upon the Chinese any realization of the supposed futility of their struggle so long will they have failed of their purposes. The territory which they have overrun cannot be said to be theirs until they have been able to secure the peaceful co-operation of its inhabitants, and, judging from the reports available, the Japanese at the present time are far from bringing about what is for their purposes a very necessary state of affairs. They may be able to do it eventually, but that will not be possible until there is borne in upon the masses of the Chinese the utter useless of further resistance.

That has not been done up to the present. Despite a few whisperings, there is nothing to indicate that Chiang Kai-shek does not still hold the imagination of the Chinese people, nothing to suggest that the original inspiration which he gave them has been to any great extent diminished. The hope has been expressed that with the fall of Hankow the situation in this respect may be changed. There is that possibility, but, as the fall of Nanking and Hsuchowfu failed to effect such a change, so may also the capture of Hankow, for against such a loss the Chinese have been prepared for months. Much has been made of the Japanese contention that once Hankow has been lost the Chiang Kai-shek regime will amount to nothing more than a provincial government in status. It is true that the dimensions of the territory in which the fiat of the Chinese Government runs will have been still more reduced, but in matters such as these it is fallacious to endeavour to estimate the value of a government merely by the superficies it may control. So long as the Generalissimo continues to command the loyalty and obedience of the Chinese in the manner he has done during all these months of national suffering, so long will he continue to head the government of the Chinese people. He will be no less a figure in the struggle of the Chinese against Japanese domination, than was Sun Yat-sen in the first fight against the imperial regime and latterly against that of the war lords which disappeared with the ascendency of the National Government. It is consequently in the spiritual values of the race that the redemption of the Chinese is to be found, and, so long as those are not influenced by material reverses, the Japanese may be regarded as still a long way from ultimate success. That is shown in conditions in areas which are now apparently under Japanese control, and so far as it can be seen at present to the huge cost of the present campaign must eventually be added the large expenditure necessary to maintain military gains as fruits of victory. Thus on a national anniversary celebrated under such gloomy conditions as is this, the Chinese convinced of the excellence of their cause, determined upon a resistance which is remarkable for negative successes completely in line with the Chinese genius, may not even now regard the outlook as too desperate.

Health Improvement

The earliest detailed records of the British nation's health, which were made in 1838, enable interesting comparisons with present-day conditions to be drawn. One hundred years ago Great Britain was already a largely urbanised country with a third of its population living in towns. The general death-rate was then nearly double that of 1937, while from tuberculosis alone it was over six times as great. For every 1,000,000 inhabitants 1,000 died from smallpox and 22 from cholera, whereas not a single person died from either of these diseases in 1937. The typhoid death rate, which formerly stood at 1,228 per 1,000,000, has been reduced to 5. These vast improvements have been achieved through a steadily increasing medical knowledge, aided by the provision of clinics and other health services. The facts upon which such comparisons are based are now more easily available than was formerly the case. In 1919 the administration of the public health services was transferred from a number of subordinate or local authorities to a national authority, the Ministry of Health, which has ever since issued most comprehensive and excellent annual reports. These reports give full records and comparative statistics of health conditions and health services throughout the country. They are read by many members of the public who are not directly concerned with the public health services, but who are interested to see what is being done with the vast sums expended on them. Last year this expenditure totalled £147,000,000, but a perusal of the Ministry's report leaves no doubt in the mind of the reader that it was a sound investment from the point of view of national health. To take a longer view, it is a singular and significant fact that since 1920 young people in industrial cities have added nearly a stone to their weight and an inch to their stature.

British Canning

The development of the canning industry, which has been rapid of recent years, has given Great Britain a sense of satisfaction from two points of view. In the first place it has provided welcome support to the agricultural industry. Thousands of tons of produce which would otherwise have been difficult to sell at a reasonable profit have been marketed for canning purposes, while the consuming public has been assured of a plentiful supply of British fruits and vegetables all the year round. In the second place, the canning of so much sound food offers a greater measure of security to the nation as a whole, in time of emergency, than could well be provided by any other means. Up-to-date statistics are difficult to obtain, but the rate of growth of the industry may be gathered from the fact that one can-making plant, which was installed in a fruit and vegetable growing district in 1926, now turns out as many cans in one day as it formerly did in one year. One expert estimates that over 300,000,000 cans of fruit and vegetables were packed in Great Britain during 1937, in addition to about 100,000,000 cans of milk products of various kinds. Excluding milk products, British home-grown canned foods utilized last year about 60,000 tons of tin-plate, and absorbed the fruit and vegetable crops of a total area of about 75,000 acres.

A Tonsorial Threat

Investigations which have been carried on by Dr. Kyo Hashimoto, of the Niigata Medical College, has led him to announce that the highly complicated mechanical equipment for permanent waving of the hair is most injurious because of the high temperature at which it is operated, and that women resorting to this aid to beauty must prepare ultimately to become bald. As one form or another of inducing graceful curves into ordinarily straight hair has been in use for at least the last twenty years, without any such evil results having become widely spread, it will generally be felt that the pronouncement comes somewhat late in the day, and it is unlikely that this threat, which has not yet become very apparent, will deter women from having permanent, or more properly temporarily permanent curls arranged for them by their hairdressers. Women who will suffer almost anything for beauty's sweet sake are not likely to be put off by the possibility that at some future date their hair may become very short, or entire baldness ensue, and it is almost as unlikely that they would refrain from present practices if a degree of inevitability were imported into the pronouncement which at present is missing. That the process is attended with some risk is clear from the number of damage suits which actually are tried in the courts, and the much larger number which never engage the attention of the judges, but this fact has had no effect upon the willingness of women to take the risks involved in the operation. Whether there is merit or not in Dr. Hashimoto's discovery still remains to be seen, but he conveys a little comfort, if what he says is correct, in his additional statement that women will not worry because wigs are now very skilfully made and are obtainable at moderate prices. However much they might dislike the idea of wearing such confections, the women will probably argue that as long as their hair lasts to give them the curled appearance they desire while good looks are of paramount appearance, they will bother very little whether they have to wear wigs or not when passing years bring them to the time when such things no longer matter. The doctor's discovery is, therefore, very likely to influence women either one way or the other, while it is more than a little offset by the discovery of the American hairdresser who has developed a method whereby all women may be given permanent waves by a new method of cutting the hair. His discovery has already been tried out in the western hemisphere, while he has recently been teaching it to people in the United Kingdom. Should the scheme be as successful as is already claimed, the time will soon come when women will no longer spend hours under the hands of present day sorcerers, but having delivered themselves over the expert wielder of the scissors for a few times, spend the rest of their lives free from all the terrors of the modern phantastic-looking machine whereby such results are at present obtained.

Short Story

A SNAKE collector was walking along, when he noticed a rare snake, a specimen of which he had been anxious to secure for a long time. It was about to go into a hole. As he had no weapons with which to trap the reptile, he decided that his best plan would be to catch it by the tail each time it entered the hole, and throw it as far as he could, hoping that by this means he would eventually tire out the snake and then capture it with little trouble.

He did this, and after about twenty throws the snake was about to enter its hole, when it suddenly stopped, turned right round, and entered the hole backwards.

A LANCASHIRE couple had moved from their country cottage into a modern Council house. All their goods and chattels arrived safely, with the exception of the rainwater butt.

The husband said they did not need it now that they had water laid on in their little house, but the wife pleaded that this was a necessity to her, so at last he said he would go back to the cottage and get it.

He had been gone hours, and darkness had fallen, and his wife got worried. In the small hours of the morning there was a dull thud outside the house, and then a dishevelled and perspiring husband tottered in.

"Ee, lass," he said, falling into a chair, "A've 'ad job wit' toob. Thee didn't tell me it were full o'water."

Truce Parleys Likely In Spanish War

Non-Intervention Mission on Visit to Burgos May Broaden Basis of Discussion : Withdrawal Of Italian Volunteers Starts

St. Jean de Luz, Oct. 9.

PERSISTENT rumours are current here and on the frontier of an early opening of negotiations for a truce in Spain. The size and importance of the Non-Intervention Committee's mission in Burgos, which is due here en route to Spain tomorrow, is taken to indicate that more than the withdrawal of volunteers will be subject to discussion. It is pointed out that the matter of withdrawal has been virtually settled.

In reply to statements in Government circles, that Senor Negrin, at Geneva, is prepared to offer terms on the basis of a constitutional monarchy and general amnesty on both sides, Nationalist circles here emphasize that nothing but unconditional surrender by Barcelona will be acceptable in Burgos.

A semi-official diplomatic representative of General Franco told Reuter at Biarritz, last evening, that he would not be surprised if the Non-Intervention Committee was presented, at Burgos, with proposals approximating three points.

Published in the local paper last night, the three points were:

1. The absolute withdrawal of volunteers on both sides;
2. The granting of recognition of belligerent rights to both sides;
3. Rigid adherence to non-intervention on the part of the Great Powers, leaving the problem to be solved by the two parties concerned.—Reuter.

Inspired By Rome

Rome, Oct. 9.

The Salamanca announcement on the withdrawal of Italian volunteers from Spain has created the impression here that the talks between Great Britain and Italy have made even better progress than has been believed, and that an early putting into effect of the Anglo-Italian Agreement may be anticipated.

It is considered that the withdrawal has been definitely inspired by Rome, and that it has been accepted by General Franco after consultation with the Italian Government.

The Salamanca announcement states: "General Franco is preparing for the immediate repatriation of the Italian legionaries who have done more than 18 months' uninterrupted service in Spain.

"In arranging for this substantial withdrawal of volunteers, Nationalist Spain is contributing in an effective manner to the re-establishment of international confidence, satisfying in this way the wish expressed by the Non-Intervention Committee." —Reuter.

Withdrawal of Volunteers

Rome, Oct. 8

Premier Benito Mussolini today began evacuating part of his Blackshirt volunteers from Spain in order to obtain Great Britain's recognition of his Ethiopian conquest and ratification of the Anglo-Italian friendship pact.

Elated by this development, British sources point out that if there is no immediate hitch, the April agreement should enter into force early in November after Mr. Neville Chamberlain obtains Parliament's approval.

Fascist circles estimate that today's announcement will affect some 10,000 volunteers or approximately one-third of Italy's total forces in Spain. All volunteers who have served 18 months continuously in the 27-month-old war will be evacuated. British quarters, however, hope that Il Duce will recall more than 10,000 in order to facilitate the Prime Minister's task of pushing the accord through Parliament.

Diplomatic observers noted that today's communique cleverly described this partial withdrawal as "substantial" thus adopting the same term which Mr. Chamberlain several times employed as the yardstick for fulfilment of the Spanish clauses in the April accord.

It is reported in reliable circles that Lord Perth, British Ambassador to Rome, will continue his efforts to persuade Il Duce to recall even more than 10,000. Observers believe that today's communique purposely refrained from mentioning the number of men involved in order to leave the way clear for repatriation of any number that Sig. Mussolini considers necessary in order to obtain the highly-desired Anglo-Italian pact.

London's Reaction Awaited

Awaiting London's reaction to today's announcement, Italian newspapers print the communique without any comment or effort to link it up in any way with the recent talks between Lord Perth and Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister.

There is a general feeling, however, that today's development sounds the beginning of Sig. Mussolini's complete liquidation of his Spanish commitments which cost the lives of approximately 10,000 volunteers and billions of lire. Fascists feel that they won a partial victory because they are now confident the menace of Bolshevism in Spain has been eliminated.

As a result of recent developments, Italian newspapers have been printing less news about Spain. In particular, it is noted that special correspondents in Spain for several weeks have not mentioned the part played by Fascist volunteers in the different military activities.

Today's "La Tribuna" does mention, however, that aviation units based on the Balearics bombed Valencia port, destroying gasoline deposits. The despatch does not state whether Italians piloted the planes, but in foreign military circles here there is a belief that Italian pilots are also being recalled from Spain and are being replaced by Spanish aviators which the Italians have trained.—United Press.

Further Withdrawals May Be Asked

London, Oct. 8.

Great Britain, while welcoming a partial withdrawal of Italian troops from Spain, is prepared to demand further Italian withdrawals as a prerequisite for a stabilization of European peace, it was learned today.

Informed sources branded as premature reports from Rome that Anglo-Italian differences had been settled and that the friendship pact would soon go into effect.

Some sources viewed the Italian withdrawal as an attempt by Premier Benito Mussolini to force Britain's hand. However, it is felt that Il Duce is eager to come to terms with Britain to counteract Herr Adolf Hitler's triumph over Czechoslovakia. —United Press.

5th Sudeten Zone Occupied

German Troops March Into Reichenberg ; Six Generals Take Salute

Reichenberg, Oct. 9.

German troops, in the occupation of the fifth Sudeten zone, goosestepped into Reichenberg yesterday to the accompaniment of thunder, lightning and hail. More stirring than any previous scenes which accompanied the occupation of Sudetenland, was the entry into the city, with colours flying, of a half division of troops consisting of artillery, infantry and engineers.

General von Beck, commander of the fifth zone, accompanied by five other Generals, took the salute in Benes Square.

When the troops marched by to the music of massed bands, General von Beck received the Freedom of the City from the Lord Mayor, on the steps of the Town Hall. A proclamation was then broadcast to the assembled crowds, announcing that Benes Square had been renamed Bismarckplatz.—Reuter.

"You Are Now in Germany"

Berlin, Oct. 9.

"You are now at home in Germany," Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Prussian Premier and Air Minister, told Sudeten Germans in a speech at Karlsbad yesterday.

Continuing, he said that "after years of suppression and terror, you have gained the proud feeling of freedom.

"Germany, her Fuehrer and her people," he concluded, "were prepared to fight to the last breath for your freedom. You are no longer Sudeten Germans, but Reich Germans."—Reuter.

Prague Returning to Normal

Prague, Oct. 9.

With the demilitarised reservists steadily resuming their jobs in civil life and the refugees gradually returning from the country, the capital is resuming its pleasant self again.

The newspapers report that Dr. Eduard Benes, the President who resigned last week, will shortly leave Czechoslovakia for a holiday in Switzerland.

Dr. Benes's withdrawal from public life has been marked by a remarkable lack of feeling by the public and the press, which is content with the publication of a sketch of the former President's life and some foreign comment. There is a growing feeling that Dr. Benes's foreign policy has been largely responsible for the disasters which have overwhelmed the country, and the people are now paying for the consequences.

The Prague City Council has rejected a proposal that the French and English names of some of the city's streets be immediately replaced by Czech names.—Reuter.

Czechs To Retain Posts

Berlin, Oct. 8.

Leading Czech officials of the big utility plants in the Sudetenlands, such as the mines, power stations, and chemical factories will retain their posts temporarily with full assurance of their personal freedom and liberty, and the right to return later to Czechoslovakia when properly-trained German staffs are ready to take over.

This decision was reached at a meeting today of the Czech-German Economic and Social Welfare Committee in order to avoid closing or damaging the plants because of untrained personnel. Officials also began negotiations on an uninterrupted continuance of payment of social insurance to inhabitants of the Sudetenlands.—United Press.

Jews Alarmed Over London Talks

Palestine Proposals Might Reduce Jews to Minority

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Oct. 9.

Sir Harold MacMichael, High Commissioner for Palestine, was again in consultation with Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, the Colonial Secretary, at the Colonial Office yesterday, with reference to the situation in Palestine. The talks began in the morning and were continued in the afternoon.

Conversations were also proceeding between the Zionist leader, Dr. Weizmann, and the Iraqian Foreign Minister, Seyyid Tawfik Swaidi.

Another caller at the Colonial Office yesterday was General Viscount Gort, Chief of the Imperial General Staff. It is anticipated that Sir Harold MacMichael will return to Palestine the middle of this week.

Alarm Among Jews

The talks between Mr. MacDonald and Sir Harold MacMichael were viewed with alarm by the Jews throughout the world, it was stated by the official Jewish Agency for Palestine in London last night. Cables reaching the World Zionist Organization in London, it was added, expressed fears that new proposals would inflict a stoppage of Jewish immigration to Palestine, and would relegate Palestine Jewry to a minority status.

Representatives of American Jewry telegraphed to the Dominions Office expressing the earnest hope that the British Government would continue to exercise the responsibilities of the mandate for Palestine, in accordance with the provisions of the Balfour Declaration. —Reuter.

Royal Visit To Canada Next Summer

King and Queen Accept Premier's Invitation

London, Oct. 9.

It has been announced from Balmoral Castle that the King and Queen have graciously consented to accept the suggestion of the Prime Minister of Canada, Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, that they visit Canada next year. Their Majesties hope to arrive early in the summer and spend about three weeks in the Dominion.

The King and Queen hitherto have not visited Canada, and the trip will be the King's first visit to any part of his Empire outside the United Kingdom since his Accession.

Plans for the visit were originally discussed by Lord Tweedsmuir, the Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of Canada, in several talks with the King at Buckingham Palace. No details of the trip have yet been settled, but it is expected that their Majesties will go to Canada in a specially chartered liner.

Added significance is given the visit by the fact that the King is King of Canada, as well as King of England, under the terms of the Statute of Westminster.

There is no present indication whether their Majesties will cross the border into the United States, during their trip. No reigning British Sovereign has yet set foot in the New World.

It is understood that, although definite arrangements have not yet been made, it is not likely that the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret will accompany the King and Queen to Canada.—Reuter.

May Visit United States

London, Oct. 8.

Palace sources said there was a good chance that their royal majesties will also visit the United States, but details of the journey are as yet unfinished. The part already scheduled include plans to visit the major dominions.

It is recalled here that their visit to India was twice postponed because of turbulent world affairs, hence it is indicated that the King anticipates the situation in 1939 will be relatively calm.

The trip will be a full state visit. A regency, including Dowager Queen Mary, the Duke of Kent, the Duke of Gloucester and the Prime Minister will rule during the absence of the King and Queen.—United Press.

Women Workers Glut Labour Market

Inquiry Suggested by U.S. Industrialist

Washington, Oct. 8.

Mr. John D. Biggers, Director of the Federal Unemployment Census, informed President Roosevelt today that women workers had glutted the labour market, and recommended that the Monopoly Investigation Committee study the problem.

In a letter to Mr. Roosevelt containing his resignation, the Toledo industrialist said the November unemployment census disclosed that 2,740,000 more persons—all of them women—entered or became available for employment since 1930 than was expected on the basis of past experience.

He transmitted to the President the complete census reports in four bound volumes which he said "will continue to be of considerable value as a basis from which to project future trends."—United Press.

London Underground Stations Reopened

Precautions During Crisis Relaxed

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Oct. 9.

Tube stations closed on August 29 were re-opened yesterday. Although no statement has been issued on the subject, the view generally accepted here is that the stations were closed to the public in order to allow air raid precautions to be carried out.

Tunnels under the Thames at Charing Cross were blocked with concrete, to prevent flooding in case of damage as the results of bombing.

It is probable that the concrete blocks now removed will be replaced by a system of watertight doors.—Reuter.

Another U.S. Link with Canada

Blue Water Bridge Opened At Port Huron

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 8.

Another new international bridge linking Canada and the United States across the longest unfortified frontier in the world was dedicated here today.

The Governor of Michigan, Mr. Frank Murphey, former U.S. High Commissioner for the Philippines, dedicated the bridge, to be known as the Blue Water Bridge. He pledged anew close friendship between Canada and the United States.

"Happy are nations which build bridges instead of forts," Mr. Murphey said during his dedication address. —United Press.

American Wants to Cross Atlantic in Barrel

Bath, N.Y., Oct. 8.

Mr. Ernest Biegajeski today was seeking financial backing for a proposed trip from New York to London in a barrel. He made a voyage from Cleveland to Buffalo two years ago in a barrel of the same design he plans to use for his trans-atlantic "hop." The barrel, he said, will be six feet in depth, and will carry 320 feet of sail, 18 feet wide, on a steel mast.—United Press.

Herr Hitler Says Axis Proved Firm in Hardest Trial

Germany Will Not Neglect Caution : Better Relations With Britain If Old Attitudes Abandoned

Saarbrueck, Oct. 9.

HE would continue with the construction of German fortifications and include two new territories, those of Aix-La-Chapelle and Saarbrueck, Chancellor Hitler declared in an important address here today. "I am convinced that no one understands better than yourselves what has just happened," he said. "You knew what it was to be separated from the Reich. Millions who have just returned to the Reich suffered as you did but also they experience now your happiness. This year I took a resolution to bring back to the Reich 10,000,000 Germans who were not part of it. I was perfectly aware that such a return could be obtained only by strength. The remainder of the world revealed no understanding.

"Even today we see in other countries a mixture of unconsciousness and ignorance," he added. "All the world democracies remained indifferent to the pain of ten million Germans. I was thus compelled to make a hard resolution, but it is evident that the leader of a state conscious of his honour had to be prepared to shoulder such responsibility. Conditions necessary to obtain a decision were assembled, these being: 1. The cohesion of the German nation; I am convinced that I am the leader of a virile and determined nation; 2. The assurance that nobody could break through the wall of the Reich frontier fortifications; 3. The fact that we have friends abroad.

"The axis which caused so much laughter revealed itself not only solid but also extremely firm in the hardest hours. However, we are happy that in 1938 we were able to reunite to the Reich ten million men and one hundred and ten thousand square kilometres of land without bloodshed and in peace. We succeeded despite campaigns of lies and agitation by international profiteers.

Tribute to Mussolini

The Fuehrer then paid a tribute to "the only real friend we have today, Benito Mussolini."

"I would like to mention also the other statesmen who devoted their efforts to finding the road to peace and who with that great Italian, succeeded in bringing about the conventions which gave the Reich ten million Germans," Herr Hitler continued.

"I am happy that peace was saved, but the experience of the past eight months shows us that we have to remain more cautious than ever and to neglect nothing which could be useful for the protection of the Reich. We have before us statesmen who also want peace but these Government systems owing to their construction may be replaced at any moment by others.

"After Mr. Chamberlain, there may come Mr. Duff-Cooper, Mr. Eden, or Mr. Churchill, and we know that a world war may then break out. We hope that you will remain vigilant at all times. The Jewish and Bolshevist enemy of the world is laying in wait. We know the power of the international press which only gives out lies and calumnies. We know the strange political constructions which exist around us. Every German who wants peace is ready at all times for sacrifices."

Britain's "Attitudes of The Past"

"We are prepared as a strong state, to adopt a policy of reconciliation," he added. "We can do so for we are asking for nothing from others and want peace. We are ready to improve our relations with Great Britain but on condition that Great Britain speedily drops certain attitudes which date from the past. We no longer need English governesses. British parliamentarians are worrying about what is going on the interior of the Reich, but we are not worrying about what is going on inside England; let them worry more over Palestine.

"I demand in the interest of world peace that political men get busy with their own problems and not with the problems of others, or else we shall not be able to create conditions necessary for durable peace which no one desires more than the German people."—Havas.

Dr. Benes to Become Private Citizen

Prague, Oct. 8.

Guerillas Active Near Nantao

Midnight Battle Heard in French Concession: Godown Ablaze on Bund

Coinciding with the observance of October 10, the anniversary of the Chinese revolution, Chinese guerilla activity, was reported in the Nantao district between midnight and one o'clock this morning and the sound of firing was heard throughout the French Concession.

French military patrols on duty along Siccawei Creek reported sporadic rifle fire and bursts of machine gun fire, while there were several louder explosions believed to be trench mortars or artillery indicating Japanese retaliation.

The exact area of the conflict could not be ascertained early this morning with any degree of accuracy, but the firing appeared to come from a point about a mile from Avenue Dubail bridge and it lasted for over an hour.

Adding to the excitement, a huge tongue of flame leapt into the air over the French Bund a few minutes before one o'clock this morning, and investigations revealed that it emanated from a fire which broke out at the former China Merchants No. 7 godown on the French Bund. The French Fire Brigade turned out all their equipment and the Harbour fire float also steamed up the Whangpoo to assist.

At the hour of going to press, the fire had reached serious proportions and a thick pall of smoke hung over the district. From all indications, it is believed that extensive damage was done.

No connection between the godown fire and the shooting could be traced although the coincidence impressed itself on the minds of observers.

Germany Opens First Postal Bank

47,000 Offices Created by New Department

Berlin, Oct. 9.

Curious though it may seem it is only a few weeks since the Post Office Savings Bank was introduced into Germany from Austria. After Great Britain had opened the idea was taken up in other countries and Austria started one in 1883.

But in Germany, in spite of the fact that the proposal had the support of Bismarck and Stephan, the founder of the German post office system, it was defeated in Parliament. Now this useful and popular national savings system is to be extended from Austria to the whole of Germany, and the new Reich department which will have charge of the institution in Greater Germany will have 47,000 post offices and 26,000 rural postmen to collect small savings.

It is expected that it will be particularly popular with people living in the country, and a post office savings bank book is a great boon to holidaymakers who will be able to draw any sum up to £5 on presentation of the book at any post office.—Trans-Ocean.

American Volunteers Released

Exchanged For Prisoners Held by Republicans

Hendaye, Oct. 8.

Fourteen Americans, former members of the International Brigades fighting for the Republicans who were captured during General Franco's sweep to the sea this spring arrived here today.

They were met at the International Bridge by Mr. Claude G. Bowers, United States Ambassador to Spain and Sr. David Amariglio, Delegate of the International Repatriation Committee. The men will be sent to Paris for repatriation to the United States as soon as they are vaccinated.

All of the men were released from Nationalist prisons in exchange for prisoners held by the Republicans in accordance with the plan advanced by Mr. Bowers this spring.—United Press.

Slovakia Given Autonomous Government Under Prague Agreement

Ruthenia Will Enjoy Similar Rights in New Federated Republic ; Hungarian Parleys With Czechs

Prague, Oct. 9.

The Council of Ministers, it was officially announced here, have reached complete agreement with the newly appointed Slovak Ministers and an accord has been reached providing that the Slovak cabinet will be entrusted with all the affairs specially concerning the population of Slovakia.

Furthermore, the Ministers here approved the composition of the new Slovak cabinet, which will inclue.

M. Joseph Tisso, Premier and Minister for the Interior.
M. Matus Cermak, Minister of Education.
M. Ferdinand Durcanski, Minister of Health and Public Welfare.
M. Teplanski, Minister of Public Works, Finance and Commerce.
M. Jan Lichner, Minister of Communications.

The first autonomous Slovak Government yesterday issued a proclamation, read by Premier Tisso before a huge assembly of Slovaks.

The proclamation recalled the long struggle carried on by Slovak autonomists under the leadership of the late Mgr. Andrej Hlinka, emphasized the determination of the new government to eliminate all causes of misunderstanding between Slovaks and Czechs and appealed for the cooperation of all citizens living in Slovakia, independently of their racial origin or their language.

The population of Subcarpathic Russia (Ruthenia) will from now on enjoy the same rights of autonomy which have been just granted to the Slovaks within the framework of a Federated Czech, Slovak and Ruthenian Republic M. Ivan Parkanyi, Minister for Ruthenian Affairs, announced here today.

At the same time, it was stated that the Ruthenian National Council have formed an autonomous Ruthenian Government, the composition of which will be submitted to Prague for ratification. The new cabinet is to be presided over by Deputy Brody.

Following these developments, the Ruthenian Autonomist Party declared that they renounced their demand for a plebiscite and fully favoured the settlement of the Ruthenian problem along the lines of the solution just reached in the Slovak question.—Havas.

Czech-Hungarian Negotiations

Budapest, Oct. 8.

Occupation of Hungarian populated districts in Czechoslovakia coincident with the announcement that negotiations between Hungary and the Czech Government would open Sunday was anticipated here today.

There was optimism that the negotiations would be carried out amicably. They will start on Sunday evening at Komarom near the border, according to an unofficial announcement. It was announced that the Czechoslovak Government had replied favourably to the Hungarian Note requesting immediate negotiations and the meeting was decided upon.

Well-informed quarters here reported that Hungary in tomorrow's negotiations would demand the area in southern Czechoslovakia south of a line from Bratislavia through Leva, Losonz, Kassa, Ungvar and Munkacs to Beregszasz. This would cut off the Czechoslovak salient which digs into Hungary.—United Press.

London Balloon Plan Tested

Public Sees Daylight Rehearsal of Air Defence Scheme ; "Satisfactory" Despite Mishaps

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Oct. 9.

DOZENS of silver balloons flashed in the sunlight high over London yesterday, anchored by steel cables to lorries stationed in parks and open spaces. The public saw for the first time a daylight rehearsal of London's protective "balloon barrage" network. Part of the vast curtain of steel cables which would prove an effective barrier to raiding aircraft in time of war was thrown up. The public were able to watch at close quarters every stage of the raising of the barrage.

The balloons were inflated from gas cylinders, carried on especially constructed lorries. They were assembled, and rendered airworthy, within a few minutes. Each balloon unit is a very mobile barrage, capable of being moved from point to point with great rapidity.

Yesterday, all pilots were warned by the Air Ministry to avoid London, owing to the balloons which were being flown at various heights.

The "balloon barrage," ringing the metropolis, gave Londoners some surprises, some shocks and not a few laughs. Several of the balloons broke away from their moorings and, trailing their cables, caused much anxiety.

One at Belevedere, Kent, uprooted gardens, smashed windows, damaged roofs and brought down telegraph lines. The cable finally became entangled in a railway line, where it cut off the current, stopped trains and put the railway signals out of order. Then, like some others, the balloon sailed serenely away and was expected to be somewhere in France by last night.

Other trailing cables caused scared bus passengers to duck their heads as they passed.—Reuter.

"Highly Satisfactory": Air Ministry

London, Oct. 8.

The Air Ministry announced tonight that today's tests of London's controversial balloon defence scheme had been "highly satisfactory" despite several mishaps resulting from breaks in the cables anchoring the balloons to the ground.

The balloons were released from stationary bases and portable bases on trucks and trailers today. Although anchored to the bases, the regular war-time cable was not used. This was believed responsible for the mishaps which marred the tests.

Balloons Go Adrift

Fifty of the balloons could be seen at an altitude of 2,000 feet around London, and others were at lower altitudes. Four of the balloons were lost in a strong westerly wind which broke their anchor cables. Another balloon, trailing its broken cable, uprooted a garden fence, smashed windows of several houses, and demolished a section of suburban telephone wires.

The cable of another drifting balloon caught on railway tracks, causing a short circuit which delayed train traffic for an hour. Another trailing cable ripped tiles off the roof of a suburban home as the balloon to which it was attached disappeared in the direction of the North Sea.

The Air Ministry announced tonight that all drifting balloons had later been secured before causing any additional damage. The Ministry announced that it had cancelled the remaining items on the practice drill because of "threatening weather".

The balloon barrage has been the subject of frequent debat in air defence circles where opinion differs as to the practical value of the new scheme.—United Press.

Air Minister on Defences

London, Oct. 9.

Sir Kingsley Wood, Air Secretary, said at the opening of the Cambridge municipal aerodrome that Europe has just been very near to a great disaster. Many had realized for the first time by the preparations for evacuation and distribution of gas masks what modern war might mean.

The old security as an island nation had gone and they were bridged to the continent by machines capable of destruction and death. Much had been done but much remained in connection with air defences.

Productive capacity was being increased in many directions. Extensions of buildings were being carried out throughout the aircraft industry. He was in a position to announce that the Air Ministry had approved the construction of a new factory at Gloucester, to be managed by Gloster Aircraft Company, costing over £1,000,000. Extensions had also been approved for the Fairey factory at Stockport at a cost of more than £500,000.

Response to Recruit Appeal

There had been a remarkable response to the recent appeal for recruits for the Royal Air Force; since the beginning of the financial year, between 900 and 1,000 men had started training as pilots in the regular service, and over 300 as observers; there had been an excellent response too in the recruiting of apprentices and boys; in addition, over 11,000 men had entered the service as recruits.

On the reserve side, too, good results had been attained. The Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve had already over 2,000 pilots under training.

Some little time ago the Government had decided to extend the ballon defences of the country. Many improvements had recently been made, and new devices tried out in relation to balloon defences. The disposition of these defences had been based on consideration of the relative importance and vulnerability of objectives for air attack.

More Balloon Barrages

He could not be expected to say where new barrages would be located, but depots would probably be formed for recruitment and training of auxiliary personnel in certain towns, including Birmingham, Bristol, Manchester, Liverpool, Hull, Newcastle, Plymouth, Southampton, Glasgow and Cardiff.

These new units would be administered by territorial associations. Sir Kingslev Wood said that over 30,000 applications had been received for the Civil Air Guard, and it had been decided that the club lists for the Guard would be closed temporarily.

Announcements issued by the Air Ministry and the Civil Air Guard give effect to the statement at the end of the speech, for applications have been received at the rate of more than 1,000 per week.—Wireless through Reuter.

Weather Crippled Mercury Flight

Ice, Thunderstorms, Severe Headwinds Experienced ; 261 Miles Short of Record

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Capetown, Oct. 9.

Recounting the record long distance flight, from Dundee to Capetown, of the pick-a-back seaplane Mercury, her chief pilot, Captain Bennett, said that they had struck trouble from the outset.

First, they were compelled to sacrifice altitude because they struck ice at a height of 10,000 feet. Then, they encountered thunderstorms over Algeria and very severe headwinds over West Africa.

The strain of adverse conditions, Captain Bennett explained, brought their petrol supply low, compelling them to seek a landing near the mouth of the Orange River. A safe landing was negotiated, but for a time the 'plane was stranded on a sandbank. The inhabitants of Alexander Bay sighted them and, discarding their clothes, waded to the scene and assisted in getting the machine clear.

The pilot stated that petrol, dispatched from Port Nilloth, 84 miles away, had arrived in the meantime, and drums of fuel were floated out to the seaplane.

No Sleep During Flight

Early that afternoon, he continued, the Mercury was again started and easily made Capetown, where she was welcomed by the Lord Mayor after a perfect landing at Table Bay.

Captain Bennett stated that neither he nor his companion had any sleep since the flight started, although they had used the automatic control as much as possible. The machine behaved perfectly under trying weather conditions, he said. He considered that the Mercury would have broken the record but for the weather.

Captain Bennett concluded by saying that he and his companion would probably adhere to the plan to fly home in easy stages, starting out on October 11.—Reuter.

Gains World Seaplane Record

Capetown, Oct. 9.

The Mercury, arrived here at 4.10 yesterday afternoon, G.M.T. (10 minutes past midnight, Shanghai time.) Although the seaplane failed to beat the non-stop long distance flight record, she gained the world's long distance record for seaplanes by a substantial margin of 731 miles.

As the result of severe headwinds, which caused a drain on her fuel reserves, the Mercury had to alight at the mouth of the Orange River, in South West Africa, at 7.25 a.m. G.M.T., having then flown 6,045 miles. The previous seaplane record of 5,214 miles was set up by the German Dornier catapult aircraft from Start Bay to Brazil.

The Mercury's average speed was 144 m.p.h. throughout her flight. This was easily the highest speed ever maintained on a long distance flight. The average cruising speed of the Russian record flight from Moscow to San Jacinto (6,306 miles) was just over 100 m.p.h.

The Mercury's flight to Orange River began from Dundee at 1.19 p.m. last Thursday, and thus took approximately 42 hours. She was over Heston aerodrome at 3.39 p.m. on Thursday, and her time from London was, therefore, 39 hours and 42 minutes.—Reuter.

Mr. Eden's Cabinet Proposal

Foreign Affairs Committee Suggested

London, Oct. 9.

The formation of a "Cabinet of National Concentration" is advocated in the "Sunday Times" by Mr. Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, who with some slight reservations has now rallied to Mr. Chamberlain's policy on the ground that in vital questions of the foreign policy national unity should prevail over party dissensions.

British armaments must be greatly increased if the country is to be able in future to resist political pressure from the outside. In order to pave the way for a policy of national union, Mr. Eden suggests the immediate exchange of views between the Cabinet and opposition leaders as well as the creation of a Parliamentary committee for foreign affairs on the French model to which the Ministers would be obliged to furnish all information unsuitable for publication for reasons of the state. All such information would of course, be treated confidentially by the committee.—Trans-Ocean.

Japan Not Fortifying Mandated Islands

New Air Lines Developed For Official Business

Geneva, Oct. 8.

Japanese representatives here today denied that Japan was fortifying the mandated islands of the Southern Pacific placed under Japan's control after the Great War.

Japanese military and naval activities on these islands, the Japanese statement declared, were non-existent despite some reports to the contrary. The statement said the development of new airlines across these islands was necessary for the conveyance of official documents and for the "observation of the movement of fish."—United Press.

A Programme for Shanghai

American Association Formed to Deal With Problems Affecting Community

THE prevention and abolition of Japanese monopolies, the restoration of the North-of-the-Creek areas and the discontinuance of Japanese sponsored censorship—these are but three of the objectives of the General Relations Committee of the American Association (formerly the American Community) which were adopted by resolution at a meeting held on September 16 last and have now been sent to all members. The General Relations Committee was appointed in view of the "growing conviction that American individuals and organizations in Shanghai should set up a representative body to co-ordinate and give effect to their policies and programmes."

The object of the committee is to promote the safeguarding of American life, property and interests in Shanghai primarily and in the rest of China "as may be practical." The Committee does not presume to take the place of any existing agency, "least of all those of the United States Government," but is intended to supplement any or all of them or to take independent action on occasion if advisable.

A programme has been drawn up setting out the immediate objectives, which are nine in number. They are:—

Programme

Prevention of further encroachment on the International Settlement of Shanghai and interference with its administration;

Restoration of the Hongkew, Yangtzepoo and Western Areas to the full authority and control of the International Settlement;

Restoration of transportation facilities, including railways, shipping, commercial airways and motor highways, with access to markets and mission centres in the Yangtze valley and other areas;

Prevention and abolition of all monopolies created by Japanese and their agents in contravention of the Nine Power Treaty and the Open Door Policy of equal opportunity

Restoration of American properties to their rightful owners with full access to and use thereof;

Discontinuance of Japanese-sponsored censorship or other interference with mails, telegrams, cables, radios, or other means of communications;

Immediate return of equipment and resumption of dredging operations necessary for maintenance of Shanghai as a port for the use of American and international shipping;

Recognition and maintenance of extraterritorial status of Americans and their interests in accordance with treaties;

And the adoption and support of all practical measures (a) to limit the scope of hostilities in their disastrous effects on civilian communities and to prevent their possible ultimate spread to other quarters of the world, and (b) to bring about the early establishment of a just peace based on the recognition of China's sovereignty and territorial integrity and the rights of American nationals to pursue their legitimate interests in China on the basis of equal opportunity with the nationals of any other foreign power.

Plan of Procedure

The general plan of procedure is co-operation with various bodies and the compilation of information and its presentation in the best quarters. The U.S. Government authorities in Shanghai are to be kept informed and their advice and co-operation sought, but these relations are to be entirely unofficial and the Committee of General Relations reserves the right to state its own case.

It is stressed that the Committee is "the servant of the American community," and that it should receive active guidance and support and have the co-operation of All American citizens, particularly as a medium for expressing their needs."

The Shanghai Municipal Council, with which body close co-operation will be sought, will be kept informed of the programme, attitudes and wishes of the American community, while co-operation will be sought with other nationals where desirable.

Provision is being made for a representative in Washington to keep the U.S. Government and other interested organizations and agencies informed "relative to the needs and wishes of Americans in Shanghai and China generally." An advisory committee will be set up in Washington and branch committees will be established elsewhere as desirable.

Finally, "the general line of procedure shall be through the presentation of information, through the United States Government authorities in Shanghai, through the representative of the American community in Washington and, where desirable, directly through correspondence or the press."

Mexico Overrules Oil Companies

Appeal on Expropriation Deemed Premature; Legal Fight to Start Again

Mexico City, Oct. 8.

The second section of the Supreme Court, by a 4-0 decision, over-ruled today an appeal by American and British oil companies against the government's expropriation of foreign-owned properties.

The Court contended the appeal is premature until the companies have obtained a decision of "administrative appeal" from the Department of National Economy.

The decision is considered to be a severe setback as it obliges the companies to begin an entirely new legal fight to save their property, valued at U.S.$400,000,000. The court sidestepped any direct ruling either as to the constitutionality of the expropriation law or the expropriation itself.

As a result, the companies must await the Economic Ministry's decision, which if unfavourable, will oblige them to seek redress in the lower courts. This will mean a delay of months or years.—United Press.

Discussions Held Over

Washington, Oct. 8.

The State Department indicated today that discussions with Mexico on recent expropriations of American-owned property are being temporarily held in abeyance pending completion of negotiations on payments for farmlands expropriated in past years.—United Press.

Brush Factory on Fire In Sinza Road

Woman Fractures Leg in Jump from Building

A Chinese woman broke a leg at about noon yesterday jumping from a burning building in the course of a disastrous fire in Lane 471, Sinza Road. She was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in a Fire Brigade ambulance.

The flames affected a Chinese brush factory and adjoining buildings. One house was badly damaged and three were slightly involved. The alarm reached the Fire Brigade at 11.35 a.m. and the firemen spent two hours in extinguishing the flames. Hundreds of Chinese in the congested neighbourhood watched the firemen work.

Permanent Waves Bring Baldness

Japanese Savant's Dire Prediction for Women

Tokyo, Oct. 9.

Women who have permanent waves must prepare to become bald, according to Dr. Kyo Hashimoto of the Niigata Medical College.

His scientific investigation, he says, has proved that the highly complicated mechanical equipment for permanent waving is most injurious because it is operated at a very high temperature.

After repeated "perms," he asserts, women will either have very short hair or become entirely bald.

But most women, Dr. Hashimoto thinks, will not worry, "because wigs are now very skilfully made and are obtainable at moderate prices." Baldheadedness, he predicts, may become very common among modern women.—Reuter.

Fourth Marines' Church

The Metropol Theatre was the scene yesterday morning of an outstanding event in the series of church service and concert programmes presented by the Fourth United States Marines each Sunday morning. Mr. J. C. Booth, baritone soloist, was the guest artist in the concert and sang two excellent selections with accompaniment by the Marine Band. For his first number Mr. Booth sang the "Windmill" by Nelson, and continued with the beautiful "Love's Devotion" by Tate. The concert opened with the Fourth Marines' Band, under the able leadership of Staff Sergeant William R. Stuart, playing Weber's overture "Oberon" and continued with the enchanting fantasia "Creme de la Creme" by Tobani. As a fitting conclusion the band rendered the ever popular Marines' Hymn and the American National Anthem.

The service which preceded the concert was conducted by Chaplain R. R. Marken. The Marine Chaplain delivered a challenging sermon on the vital theme "Spiritual Vitamins." Selections by the Fourth Marines' Band included Acciani's beautiful prelude "In A Rose Garden" and "Sweet Jasmine" by Bendix as the Offertory number. The special musical feature of the worship service was "Sacred Melody" rendered by the Instrumental Quartet, composed of four fine musicians of the Marine Band. Hymns sung in the service were led by Sergeant Sheehan with music by the band.

Attempted Coup in Siam Denied

Singapore Reports of Plan To Restore Ex-King

Bangkok, Oct. 8.

The Siamese Government denied today reports of an attempted coup d'etat designed to restore ex-King Prajadhipok to the throne.

The former king abdicated on March 2, 1935 following two coups, one of which overthrew absolute monarchy on June 24, 1932.

Reports received in Singapore said that a coup was crushed yesterday and that several prominent political figures in Siam were arrested, while one minister was reported to have fled to Penang.—United Press.

French Ambassador To Italy

M. Francois-Poincet Likely To Be Appointed

Paris, Oct. 8.

It is understood that the Cabinet, at its next meeting on Tuesday, will ratify the appointment as Ambassador to Italy of M. Andre Francois-Poncet, the present Ambassador to Germany.

Meanwhile, politicians here view the Italian decision to withdraw part of the Italian volunteers in Nationalist Spain as a real improvement in the relations between Paris and Rome.

Diplomatic quarters expressed conviction that this action by Italy is merely a beginning, since Italy sincerely wishes an improvement in Anglo-Italian relations and facilitate Mr. Neville Chamberlain's task in this connection.

Further Anglo-Italian talks coupled with the visit to Burgos of Mr. Francis Hemming, Secretary of the Non-Intervention Committee, might result in further withdrawals before the meeting of the British Parliament on November 1. It is anticipated that the Grand Fascist Council might provide some information on Italy's intentions soon.—Havas.

Precautions Taken Against Trouble

Searching Started, and Usual Measures to Be Enforced on Anniversary

The Settlement and French Police last night put the finishing touches to elaborate precautions against possible demonstrations on the "Double Tenth" holiday, today. The measures are similar to those taken on recent anniversaries having a political significance.

In the Settlement, certain bridges over the Soochow Creek will be closed today, and barbed-wire barriers will be placed at "strategic" points. Search parties and special patrols already started operating yesterday, and in the Central police district alone eighteen suspicious characters had been rounded up by noon yesterday. All were fingerprinted upon being taken to Central Station.

The police will be on the alert against demonstrations of any sort and will do their utmost to curb the activities of agents distributing political handbills and chalking inflammatory slogans on walls. It is expected that a number of raids will be made during the day in the Chinese hotel and lodging-house districts as well as at undesignated places. Motor-cars, lorries and rickshaws will be halted and searched at many points as on previous anniversaries this year.

The Japanese naval and military authorities are understood to have taken special precautions against attacks by guerillas in the vicinity of Shanghai.

Berlin Has Fewer Hotels

Failure to Recover from Travel Depression

Berlin, Oct. 9.

Although the number of foreign visitors to Germany and Berlin especially has been steadily increasing in recent years, there is still a curious decline in the number of hotels which first started after the War. During the last 20 years the number of hotel beds in Berlin has dropped from 30,000 to 25,000. In 1933 the reasons given were that the trade slump and general depression had reduced the number of tourists, but since then more and more people have been coming to Berlin and still there is no improvement.

In the busy centre of the city many hotels have been made into offices or now house various official departments. Normally the reduction in accommodation makes very little difference but when big exhibitions or meetings are being held there is a shortage of hotels. The President of the Tourist Union is approaching official quarters with a request that a stop should be put to this conversion of hotels into offices. He points out that the hotels in the centre of the city are the most popular with foreign visitors and that if left unchecked the present tendency will lead to a serious shortage in a few years.—Trans-Ocean.

Parliament Dissolution In France Seen

Justice Minister Resigns From Democratic Group

Paris, Oct. 9.

Parliamentary dissolution is being freely talked about in various political quarters, following the disappearance of the Popular Front majority on Wednesday, when the Communists voted against the Government's Plenary Powers Bill and the Socialists abstained.

"Le Temps" says that "all the political parties are divided on essential questions. Arbitration is indispensable and the arbitrator in a democracy like ours can only be universal suffrage."

At the same time, M. Paul Reynaud, Minister of Justice and vice-President of the Democratic Alliance Group in the Chamber of Deputies, has resigned from the Party. The reason for his resignation is disagreement with the foreign policy of M Pierre-Etienne Flandin, head of the Party and former Premier.

It will be recalled that M. Flandin sent a telegram to Herr Hitler on October 2, congratulating him on the Munich Agreement and expressing the hope for better relations between Germany and France.—Reuter.

Czech Refugee Relief Funds Grows

London Lord Mayor Will Pay Visit to Prague

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Oct. 9.

The Lord Mayor of London, Sir Harry Twyford, will fly to Prague tomorrow to set up, under the guidance of the British Minister, Mr. Basil Cochrane Newton, the organization necessary to make use of the Lord Mayor's Fund for the relief of refugees.

The Fund reached a total of £20,000 within 24 hours after it was launched. The post yesterday was so enormous that late tonight it was still occupying 27 clerks engaged only in opening the envelopes and recording the amounts contributed from all parts of the country. Among yesterday's contributions was an emerald ring, valued at £80. The collecting box, outside Mansion House, which was crammed full contained £200.

The Lord Mayor's object in flying to Prague, is to ascertain what the most urgent requirements are for the hundreds and thousands of Czech refugees. He has caneelled all engagements here for Monday and Tuesday.—Reuter.

LORD David Douglas-Hamilton, a son of the premier duke of Scotland, and Miss Prunela Stack, head of the Health and Beauty movement, are to be married this month in Glasgow Cathedral.

In the Russian Colony

BY "STROY"

We have dealt with almost all sides of life in the Russian colony, but have never yet touched upon the subject of bar girls. Yet scores of young, attractive and intelligent girls are employed now in this profession.

For the girl herself, of course, this comparatively new profession is first and foremost an extremely tiring one, demanding both physical and nervous strain. To entertain guests under the eagle eye of the proprietor or someone specially hired to watch her, to entertain not only one guest but often two or three at a time, to see that the gentlemen run up as big a bill as possible, and to converse all the while in a foreign tongue—all this, of course, is difficult even physically. And it should be kept in mind that the ardour of working in a "first-class" bar is greatly multiplied in one of the third order. Work in bars of hotels or large restaurants does not differ greatly from work elsewhere. It demands, of course, a somewhat more than average ability to make oneself understood in foreign tongues and to keep up a conversation; for it seems that when a man sits down at a bar the natural inclination is to talk. The bar is a sort of club for lonely men. To drink without talking is the ability of few—and the bar girl must always be prepared for questions of the most unexpected sort. As in a higher class bar in Shanghai these questions may be asked in English, French or German, the more of a linguist the girl is the more successful she will be in her profession and the higher she will stand in the regard of her employer. It is reasoned that if a patron can chatter freely with a bar girl in his own language, an extra drink is practically assured.

* * *

Need to Drink

Most men are the quintessence of propriety in front of bar girls, as today the latter are taking the place of bartenders the world over, but among a certain number of men the theory exists that sitting down at a bar leaves no other alternative but to flirt with the girls behind it. The saddest phase of the bar girl's profession, however, is the ever present need to drink. Not all men are satisfied if someone keeps them company conversationally; they must also have someone to drink with them. Characteristically enough, a bar girl must often listen to solemn promises of finding them jobs in offices, uttered by men of the most impressive appearance. If she confesses that she knows nothing of typewriting, shorthand or book-keeping, the guest, in his exalted mood, is invariably filled with the brightest optimism and assures her that such details can be mastered in two or three months. Leaving the bar it does not take him long to forget his promises. Work in a bar with the better class of clientele may seem interesting at first, but quickly tires the organism. The noise, the late hours, the cigarette smoke and the quick succession of impressions make nothing seem so desirable as rest and quiet.

Prof. A. J. Berdnikoff, who two years ago arrived in Shanghai from Paris where he worked in the Pasteur Institute, is leaving for Harbin to continue his research work. In prerevolutionary Russia Prof. Berdnikoff was the Director of the Bacteriological Institute, and his books were known to the whole scientific world. While in Shanghai Prof. Berdnikoff worked in the Medical Analysis Laboratory.

Foreign Help

The generous help extended to the Russian indigent by foreign charity organizations was noted with gratefulness at the general meeting of the representatives of emigrant unions and associations that are part of the National Committee. Out of $26,000, the last sum donated for charity work in Shanghai, $12,000 was given to Russian organizations. The Very Rev. Mikhail Rogojin told the meeting that winter premises for the public kitchen of the National Committee will be built on an empty lot next to kitchen's present site on Rue Bourgeat. Planned in the style of barracks, the new quarters will accommodate 300 people and will cost $5,600 to build. The $2,500 that is yet lacking will, it is planned, be collected through an appeal to the Russian colony.

The annual meeting of the Cossacks' Union was held recently, with Mr. I. N. Shendrikoff acting as chairman. Col. D. V. Kochnev made a detailed account of the activity of the Union during the past year. The heads of the Union, the speaker noted, taking into account the delicate political and economic situation now prevailing, exercised great circumspection; and this policy has proved its worth. Not only was the Union able to continue its long activities, but it effected closer unity among its members. Lieut.-Col. P. I. Usikoff, chairman of the examining committee, reported on the Union's finances, noting that $500 has remained in the bank from last year. The activities of the board of directors were approved by all, and Col. Kotchneff, the Union's present Chairman, was re-elected to this post for another year. Following a time-honoured tradition, a Court Committee was elected, this year comprised of Gen. Jukoff, Gen. Ogloblin, Gen. Zimin and Mr. Shendrikoff, barrister-at-law.

Russian Club

Continuing with its practice of last winter, the Russian Club on Avenue Foch will each Tuesday hold evenings for members and guests. The first of these evenings was held on October 4. No less than 400 people were present, youth being predominant. On behalf of the directors, Mr. A. D. Petruhin welcomed all present and said that the club was glad to have become the centre of social life in the Russian colony. Later the audience was shown a tableau vivant called "Russ." The legendary hero Ilia Murometz on his steed was shown guarding the Russian national tri-colour, while in front of him stood a richly-dressed boyar's wife, her jewel-encrusted headdress ("Kokoshik") sparkling in a beam of light. Mrs. Skopitchenko, the young poetess, read some of her verses on Russia. This was followed by a number with singers, musicians and dancers. Mr. Shumsky then recited Turgeneff's popular lines "How beautiful, how fresh were the roses," accompanied by scenic effects. After the programme the actors and all who helped to make the evening a success were entertained at supper by the board of directors.

Musical Treat

Local music-lovers have a rare treat in store for them in November. The well-known pianist and teacher Prof. B. S. Zakharoff, and his young but talented pupil Master Vladimir Havsky—whose appearance with the Municipal Orchestra was nothing short of a triumph—will give a concert in the Lyceum Theatre, playing concurrently on two pianos. They will render two suites of S. Rachmaninoff and two of Arensky.

Just returned from a business trip to America, Mr. G. M. Klebanoff tells that all over New York—in restaurants, in tramcars, in the streets—one hears the Russian tongue. Russian doctors who have passed the necessary examination and have settled down usually enjoy a good practice, but the lot of Russian engineers is a harder one as in America there is a surfeit of men with technological knowledge. Thus many Russian engineers work as insurance salesmen or take other jobs. Mr. Klebanoff tells that Dr. N. A. Pchelkin, who left Shanghai for California eight years ago, has an excellent practice in San Francisco and has bought a house.

* * *

Another Union

Following the example of Russian employees in local business offices, a union of Russian accountants and book-keepers has come into existence on the initiative of the graduates of the Shanghai Commercial College. Mr. A. F. Tsepiloff has been elected chairman. The Union already has its library and is planning a series of lectures on specialized subjects during the winter. In addition the Union undertakes to make evaluations, analyze balances and generally give firms any required information in the sphere of accountancy. The unification of Russian journalists is also under way, taking an example from the existing newspapermen's union in Harbin. The present tendency for Russian specialists to band together is explained by the changes experienced by the Russian colony after the local hostilities of last year. A union can safeguard the professional interests of a member easier than that individual could himself.

Many local residents will remember Tkatchenko's Garden on Avenue Joffre, once a composite dance-hall and Russian restaurant. But few Shanghailanders, outside those who visit Hongkong, know that on leaving Shanghai Mr. A. P. Tkatchenko opened a restaurant in Hongkong. Year by year this restaurant is winning new popularity. The present increase in the population of Hongkong is an important contributing factor, and Tkatchenko's Restaurant has become a popular meeting place of businessmen. From morning, when Russians and foreigners come there for their breakfast, to late evening, it is always full, and Hongkong residents are becoming increasingly familiar with the delights of Russian cusine.

Chinese Air Base Bombed

Japanese Claim Attempt to Revive Air Force Wrecked In Four Raids

In four successive attacks by moonlight on Henyang in central Hunan on Saturday night, Japanese naval aircraft forestalled a Chinese attempt to reconstitute their air force, a communique issued by the Japanese China Seas Fleet command yesterday claimed.

The Japanese raid, the announcement continued, inflicted severe losses. Hangars and grounded aircraft were bombarded in this surprise operation. All Japanese machines taking part in the raid returned to their base safely, according to the announcement.

"Effective raids," the communique continued, were also carried out on Saturday against military establishments at Pinglo, on the Kwei River, and Kweiling in northeastern Kwangsi province. Ten rows of Army barracks were demolished and seven others were set on fire at Kweiling.

Three raids were carried out Saturday against the southern portion of the Canton-Hankow Railway. The railway bridges at Yinchanyao and at Sunkai were claimed having been destroyed.

In Central China, the air arm of the Navy assisted the progress of land and river forces by actively bombing Chinese concentrations and artillery positions.

The river surface units made rapid progress upstream from Kichun in the face of Chinese artillery fire, a channel being cleared of mines above Kichun by nightfall. The naval units covered 15 nautical miles on Saturday, according to the communique.

The naval force in occupation of Kichun consolidated its position by dispersing Chinese forces in the vicinity of the fortified town which was captured Saturday, the communique stated.

Bluecher Mystery Deepens

Struggle for Power Seen In Soviet Arrests

London, Oct. 9.

The mystery about Marshal Bluecher, Commander-in-Chief of the Soviet Far Eastern army, continues to claim considerable public interest here. Some papers publish reports from their own correspondents to the effect that Bluecher is still alive but is being kept prisoner at Sverdlovak. Other reports are being circulated that he attempted to commit suicide in his cell.

The reason for this and other new arrests in the Soviet Union is said to be the struggle now going on for possession of the supreme power. It is alleged that after having himself co-operated in obtaining the condemnation of Marshal Tuchachevsky, Bluecher became involved in a plot to overthrow Stalin and Voroshilof.—Trans-Ocean.

Incitement to Mutiny

London, Oct. 9.

A message to the "Observer" from Helsingfors quotes the press there as stating that the charge on which Marshal Bluecher was allegedly arrested at Sverdlovsk was that of inciting Ukraine troops to mutiny.

It adds that during the last ten days 43 generals of the Soviet Far Eastern Army and Marshal Bluecher's entire staff were arrested, while six political commissars attached to the Eastern Red Forces were executed.

German Domination of Central Europe

Small Nations Impressed by Munich Success

Sofia, Oct. 9.

Germany's success in the settlement of the Czechoslovak problem at Munich has made a deep impression on small countries, where it is realized that Germany will now leave no stone unturned to fulfil her aim at dominating Central Europe and the Balkans.

The visit of Herr Walther Funk, the German Minister of Economics, to these regions is arousing interest and some anxiety on the part of other nations.

His mission to Sofia, which he will visit on October 12, is considered to be of as great political importance as it is economic. Germany is believed to be promising help to Bulgaria in solving her minorities problem.—Reuter.

Street Lighting in Nanking

After 10 months of darkness, streets were again lighted in Nanking last Thursday, the Shanghai "Mainichi" reported yesterday. Only some portions of the city, however, are again having public illumination, the paper said. The resumption of street lighting followed the removal of the Reformed Government from Shanghai to Nanking.

No. 1

At this time of year many men and women feel run-down. The great heat of recent months has made their blood thin and watery, with the result that they are 'nervy,' feel feeble in the stomach and so cannot enjoy their meals, sleep uneasily, and wake up in the mornings unrested and disinclined for the day's work.

It is to just such worn-out, debilitated people that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are of immediate and immense value. Rapidly and surely these pills enrich poor blood, purify bad blood, create new blood full of red corpuscles and haemoglobin, by means of which an abundance of oxygen and nourishment are carried to every part of the system.

In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the nerves, strengthen the digestive and other organs, impart new life and vitality. Thus they are bringing fresh energy, health and happiness to thousands of weak men and women all over the world every day. Why not let them do the same for you? Of chemists everywhere.

MR. W. J. MacDermott, Assistant Commissioner of the Settlement Police, will sail today for Hongkong in the ss. Tsinan.

M. THADDEE de Romer, Polish Ambassador, to Japan called on Mr. Kensuke Horinouchi, Japanese Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, and conferred with him for an hour on Saturday. The topic of the conference was not announced.

THE official residence of the Japanese Consul-General in Tientsin was moved on Saturday afternoon from the British Concession to the Japanese Concession. Branch offices of the China Development Company, a Japanese concern, also were transferred from the British Concession to the Chinese quarter.

SR. Garcia Sanchez, Spanish writer and lecturer, will sail in the ss. Monterey from Los Angeles on Wednesday for Honolulu, after which he will tranship to the ss. Empress of Japan, bound for Manila. Sr. Sanchez arrived in Los Angeles on Saturday after a highly successful tour of South America in which he recounted his experiences on the Spanish front.

THE Lord Mayor of London, Sir Harry E. A. Twyford intends to leave London for Prague today in order to cooperate with the British Minister in Prague, Mr. Basil Newton, in organizing relief measures for refugees now living in Czechoslovakia. The subscription list opened in London for the benefit of these refugees brought in altogether £20,000 in the first 24 hours.

DR. Jean Krysinski, Counsellor of the Polish Legation in China and Acting Consul-General in Shanghai, was the guest of honour at the reception held by faculty of Law of the Aurora University, on Saturday evening. The reception was held as a farewell party to Dr. Krysinski, who has taught law in the faculty and is shortly leaving for Europe to take up a new post in the Ministry of Foreign affairs.

MR. Charles Dukes, who has been so prominent at the Trades Union Congress, is destined to go far in the movement. Someone once said that it was generally men with loud voices who got to the front in the trades union movement. Mr. Dukes certainly has that asset, but he has much more. He grips his audience by the obvious care he has taken to master his case, and he always presents it in logical and orderly fashion, eschewing most of the old tricks of the platform.

MUSIC

Municipal Orchestra

Prelude and Love-Death Scene from Tristan .....Wagner
Intermezzo: The Walk to the Paradise Gardens from the Opera "A Village Romeo and Juliet" .....Delius
Nocturne: Fetes .....Debussy
Symphonic Episode from "Romeo and Juliet" .....Zandonai
Symphony No. 5 in E minor .....Tschaikowsky

A large and enthusiastic audience attended the Lyceum yesterday to greet Maestro Paci who was conducting his first concert since his return from Italy. He had promised to choose his programme from among the best numbers in the orchestra's repertoire and judging by the response both from the audience and from the orchestra he had chosen much to their taste.

The best renderings were of the Delius and of the Fifth Symphony. The former is one of the pieces in which Maestro Paci recently conducted the Turin orchestra. A thing of grace and delicacy, it was deservedly received with enthusiasm by that orchestra. Shanghai, incidentally, has the advantage of Turin in this respect: for them it was their first hearing of the work whereas it has been played here several times.

The most notably pleasing thing about the Fifth symphony was the way in which was played the principal theme of the second movement, andante cantabile. Shanghai cannot have heard such excellent horn playing, free from all the distressing noises the instrument can produce, for a long time. There was, however, one unfortunate moment in this same movement. Just after the "fateful leit-motiv" had recurred, the violins took up the main theme again with a lack of feeling that was almost disastrous. A word must also be said against the programme notes for the symphony. "Perhaps the rapid-flitting violin passages" (in the 3rd movement) "are the little buzzing flies hovering around us" says the poet who wrote these notes. Now, leaving aside the question of whether it is ever advisable to force on the listener a literary interpretation to music where the composer left his own interpretation unstated, it is still doubtful that little buzzing flies do add to the peaceful enjoyment of the countryside which this same poet would have us know is depicted by this movement.

The symphonic episode from Zandonai's opera "Romeo and Juliet" was by far the least successful part of the concert. Not only does it seem to be a work lacking breadth and intensity but it is also exceedingly noisy. The brass department took advantage of this to go on a burst of their own and when it was over the audience was grateful for the interval in which to soothe their ringing ears. This fault of the trumpets and trombones occurred elsewhere in the programme. Perhaps their parts were marked fortissimo in places but nevertheless their wind ought to be tempered to the power of the violins, who are short-handed.

The rest of the programme was well played and well received, particularly the Debussy "Fetes." And at the end of the concert the thought in everyone's mind must undoubtedly have been that the new winter season had been well begun. —C.

Fighting Continues on Peiping Hankow Railway

Japanese Cavalry Holds Station Against Chinese Attacks: Japanese Advance Up Yangtze

Hankow, Oct. 9.

FIGHTING is still continuing at Liuling Station on the Peiping-Hankow Railway south of Sinyang. A Japanese cavalry detachment is holding the station against Chinese counter attacks, it is reported here. Japanese forces are attacking Chinese positions southeast of Hsintien and northeast of Machen, strategic city at the base of the Tapieh Mountains in north-eastern Hupeh Province. On the southern Yangtse front Chinese troops yesterday recaptured Wanchiashan, northwest of Tehan, according to a Chinese military communiqué.

Japanese troops who crossed the Fu River southwest of Yanghsin launched a vigorous attack last night upon Chinese positions on the north bank of the river guarding Yanghsin.

It is claimed that Chinese on the south bank of the Yangtze repulsed a landing attempt by Japanese bluejackets at Weiyuankou yesterday. The naval landing partly was carried up from Tienchiacheng by a transport under escort of six warships.

In an engagement between Chinese shore batteries and Japanese naval vessels, according to another communiqué, three Japanese warships were damaged and two motorboats were sunk by artillery.

Japanese Claim More Successes

Aikow, strategic town commanding a narrow mountain defile on the road from Singtzse, on the western shore of Lake Poyang, and Tehan, was occupied by Japanese forces at 7.20 o'clock yesterday morning, a communique issued by the headquarters of the Japanese Expeditionary Force to Central China, claimed, yesterday. Operations in this sector, where strong Chinese defences were built taking full advantage of the rugged terrain, were begun late in August.

On the southern Honan front, Japanese Army aircraft were stated to have shot down one out of three Chinese 1-16 machines in a duel above Loshan at 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

Japanese troops occupied Wulitien, 25 kilometres east of Sinyang, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, closing a noose around Sinyang, important Peiping-Hankow Railway and highway junction in southern Honan which now is threatened from the east and south, a Japanese Army spokesman declared at yesterday's press conference. South of Sinyang Japanese troops cut the railway at Liulin, he stated.

Fifty cases of cholera have broken out among Japanese troops at Kwangtsi, the spokesman said. The appearance of the disease was described as "explosive." Chinese bacterial warfare was suspected, the spokesman stated.

Japanese naval forces were 85 nautical miles from Hankow after a a spectacular advance to Weiyuankou, 10 miles upstream from Kichun, on Saturday, a Japanese naval spokesman declared.

Poyang Lake Operations

Three Japanese detachments operating west of Lake Poyang continued their drive after Friday's capture of Wangling and on Saturday occupied Sishankien, a southern peak contiguous to Wangling, according to a report from the front last night.

Following the occupation of Wutai, Japanese forces in north-eastern Shansi, having completed preparations for the next stage of their drive, on Saturday morning commenced an attack against Communist troops in the Wutai Mountains, northeast of Wutai, according to a message from Shihchiachwang.

One Japanese detachment in this sector seized an arsenal which had been used by Communist troops operating in the vicinity of Nanchiehtsun in the mountains about eight kilometres east of Wutai, according to the same report. The arsenal was described as being unusually large and of a type rarely found in mountainous regions. For this reason it is supposed that the Communist forces moved it from Wutai when they were driven out of that city.

Cardinal's Palace Stormed

Nazi Attack on Austrian Catholic Leader in Vienna; Sermon Rouses Ire

Vienna, Oct. 9.

The Nazis, demonstrating against Cardinal Innitzer, the Austrian Roman Catholic leader, stormed his palace late yesterday, smashed windows and threw out articles of furniture into the street, where they were burned.

Several of the Cardinal's followers were assaulted, while the Cardinal himself was reported to have been slightly wounded by splinters from the windows. The police finally dispersed the demonstrators and 12 ambulances were necessary to take off the injured persons.

A sermon, delivered by Cardinal Innitzer on October 7 to the Catholic Youth, and dealing with relations between the Church and State, had aroused the ire of the Nazis.

Legal measures against leading members of the Catholic Church in Austria were expected to follow the Nazi Party Congress, which dealt with the Catholic anti-Nazi demonstration held after Cardinal Innitzer's sermon on Friday.

The official spokesman of the Party, in an interview with Reuter, declared that Cardinal Innitzer appeared to have joined the Catholic circles opposing the Nazi regime.—Reuter.

Vatican Not Surprised

Vatican City, Oct. 8.

Commenting on the anti-church riots in Vienna which were directed against Cardinal Innitzer, a spokesman for the Holy See said that "considering the situation in Germany, the incident does not surprise us."—United Press.

Policy Will Not Be Changed

Berlin, Oct. 8.

Informed Nazi circles said tonight that the disorders in Vienna would not change the Reich's policy toward the church because militant Catholics are considered as only a small minority.

The same sources said that the Reich, although opposed to "political Catholicism" is determined to avoid any action to antagonize all Catholics such as interference with religious services.—United Press.

Attackers to be Punished

Berlin, Oct. 9.

Herr Buerckel, Nazi leader in Austria, has ordered the leaders of the Vienna demonstrations against Cardinal Innitzer to be severely punished. They will be sent to a concentration camp for a year, according to official circles here.—Reuter.

2,000 Tons Statue For Stalin

Russian Mammoth to Excel World's Largest

Moscow, Oct. 9.

A statue of Lenin, weighing over 2,000 tons, is being built here and will be placed on top of the Palace of the Soviets which is still under construction.

The statue of Lenin will be twice as high as the Statue of Liberty in New York harbour. It will even disappear in the clouds on rainy days. It will consist of a framework in steel covered by plates of an unspoilable metal.

Elevators will move up and down in the legs and body of the statue, while electric wires placed between the plates will warm the statue in winter and prevent it from being damaged by the cold.

The structure will also be equipped with a lightning rod which will protect the statue and the entire Palace.—Havas.

Hitler Gives Theatre to Saar People

Berlin, Oct. 9.

A new theatre, which is Herr Hitler's gift to the Saar population in commemoration of the plebiscite victory in 1934, was inaugurated today.

According to Herr Goebbels, the Minister for Propaganda, the new theatre will be a people's theatre and one particularly for the young generation.—Reuter.

Record U.S. Cotton Crop

Washington, Oct. 8.

The Department of Agriculture today predicted a record supply of 25,000,000 bales of cotton for the end of the current year. The cotton production estimate for October estimated this year's crop at 12,212,000 bales, an unexpected increase compared with the September estimate of 11,825,000 bales.—United Press.

His knowledge of shipping, especially during the war and just afterwards, commended him to the Shipbuilding and Engineering Employers' Federation, where, for some years, he was associated with Sir Andrew Duncan. Yet his real interest in life was with the children of the down-and-outs. He was an ardent admirer of the pioneer work of the famous Earl of Shaftesbury and devoted most of his leisure to the Shaftesbury Society and the Ragged School Union.

Poland Still Cold Towards Prague

Hungary's Ruthenia Claims Supported As a Basis For New Alignment

Warsaw, Oct. 9.

The annexation by Poland of the Cieszyn (Teschep) district in Czechoslovakia has not resulted in any notable improvement in the relations between Prague and Warsaw.

Poland is not satisfied and government circles stress that friendly relations can only be considered when Hungary's claims are satisfied. Poland is strongly supporting annexation by Budapest of Sub-Carpathic Russia (Ruthenia).

Warsaw's reasons for this support seem to be the following:

1. Such an annexation would allow the formation of a Hungaro-Polish block which would constitute a barrier to Soviet and German influences in Eastern Europe.

2. Such a bloc would weaken Czechoslovakia's strategical position by removing Prague's last hope for eventual aid from Soviet Russia.

3. If Ruthenia were to obtain her autonomy, Warsaw would fear that the Ukrainians from Sub-Carpathic Russia would remember the 4,500,000 Ukrainians living in Poland and try to detach them from Poland.

Thus, it is only after having obtained a common frontier with Hungary that Poland would consider effecting an amicable entente with Czechoslovakia with a view to forming that "Third Europe" which is so dear to the hearts of the Polish leaders. Poland would be the kernel of this Third Europe around which all countries near the Black Sea would group, "far from blocs, far from axes and far from Geneva.—Havas.

Completion of Occupation

Paris, Oct. 9.

Polish troops will complete their occupation of the Cieszyn (Teschen) district in Czechoslovakia today.

Marshal Smigly-Rydz, the Inspector General of the Army, and Colonel Joseph Beck, the Foreign Minister, are expected to visit the recovered territories about October 15, the Warsaw correspondent of the paper "Paris-Midi announced to-day.—Havas.

British Demarche Report Denied

Warsaw, Oct. 9.

Reports published abroad to the effect that the British Government has made a demarche defining their position regarding a common Hungaro-Polish frontier is officially denied here.

It is stated that the question has not been the subject of conversations between the British and Polish Governments.—Reuter.

EARL De La Warr, who is to deputise for Lord Halifax at Geneva, is fast developing into a general utility man for the Government. It was Mr. Ramsay MacDonald who gave him his first chance, and it was to his patron that he adhered when the split of 1931 came. In the pre-1931 days he was a popular speaker at Labour Party gatherings. Young and debonair, he lends distinction to any platform. He has previously been to Geneva—in 1935—and then made a rather notable speech on nutrition, being at the time Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Agriculture.

382 Soviet Officers Victims of Purge

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 9.

About 382 high officers of the Soviet Army have been "victimized" by the purge up to the present time since May of last year when Marshal Tukhashevsky faced a firing squad, according to information received from reliable sources today.

The Soviet officers were said to include two marshals, 70 generals, 110 lieutenant-generals and 202 major-generals. The reports said the purge was in "full swing" in the Soviet Far Eastern Army.—Domei.

Rome, Oct. 9.

A communique issued after a meeting of the Fascist Grand Council at 1.30 this morning, states:

"Before beginning its work, the Fascist Grand Council sent a salute of comradeship to the legionaries about to be repatriated from Spain, after 18 months' of hard campaigning, in which they had given innumerable proofs of Italian valour, and in which they had reaffirmed, by their self-sacrifice and their blood, their decision to defend the Fascist cause with arms everywhere."

The communique added that Count Ciano, the Foreign Minister, had given a two-hour account of international events since March.

'Afterwards, the Council declared its agreement with Fascism's foreign policy and approved a motion "reaffirming, most categorically, the need for the battle for the nation's economic independence to be conducted with the utmost energy at an accelerated rate."—Reuter.

Italian Losses

Rome, Oct. 9.

One officer, a non-commissioned officer, and eight men were killed in Ethiopia during September an official communiqué released here today reported. One officer and an N.C.O. died of injuries sustained during clashes. Ten officers, five N.C.O.s, 17 soldiers, 20 blackshirts, and 65 workers died of illness or accidents.—Havas.

Double Murder Off Brenan Road

Two Chinese Shot Dead Behind Jessfield Park

Pistol shots shattered the evening quiet of Lou Sih Zah Village, off Brenan Road, yesterday about 8.40 p.m. when gang-revenge took two lives in a supposed underworld feud. The few details which were available yesterday evening state that one unidentified Chinese was shot dead and another wounded by unknown assailants. The attackers were evidently determined to do away with the victims as they pursued the wounded man to an iron workshop at 126 Lou Sih Zah and overtaking him there murdered him in cold blood by a point blank shot.

The alarmed neighbourhood sent a telephone call to the Bubbling Well police station who answered the emergency call although the drama took place out of the Settlement limits. Soon after their arrival, a party of the Ta Tao police and Japanese military arrived on the scene and took over the case. Revenge is supposed to be the motive of the brutal double killing, but as hardly any details were available and the identity of the victims and the attackers unknown, the crime may be a gang feud or a political slaying.

More Railway Workers Employed

"Red Caps" to Be Deemed Regular Employees

Washington, Oct. 8.

The Interstate Commerce Commission reported today that 22,600 railway workers were reemployed during September, bringing the total number of employees during that month to 96,968.

The increase in employment is the third in successive months and raises the Commission's adjusted index to 52.8 per cent. of the 1923-25 average. The total is approximately the same as in June, 1933.

The Commission also ruled that "Red Caps" who hustle baggage at the station are railways employees whether they are paid a salary or depend on tips. As such, the Commission ruled, they are subject to the provisions of the Railway Labour Act.—United Press.

Auxiliary Air Force Personnel Demobilized

The Ministry of Air announced yesterday that all the personnel of the Auxiliary Air Force, called out for service during the European crisis, were released from duty at midnight last night.—Reuter.

Italy Dispenses with Chamber of Deputies

Chamber of Fasces Will Be Inaugurated

Rome, Oct. 8.

Premier Benito Mussolini's Fascist dream of a "Twentieth Century" parliament neared realization today as Italian government heads prepared to put into execution the Grand Council's law creating a Chamber of Fasces and Corporations to replace the present "old fashioned" Chamber of Deputies.

Members of the new Chamber will be called "National Counsellors" instead of Deputies. They will represent every element of the national existence through the Fascist Party and the Confederations and Corporations provided for in Sig. Mussolini's Corporative State, which was calculated to conduct national business with the greatest possible efficiency.

Since the start of the Fascist regime, Premier Mussolini has been preparing to introduce the Corporative State in its final form, which fixes the syndicates formed by employers, workers and other elements as the basis.

Local syndicates are merged into provincial syndicates. These send representatives to regional syndicates which in turn send delegates to National Federations. From the Federations, Confederations of employers, workers, professional men and artists are formed. These confederations number nine in all, including separate confederations in industry, agriculture, commerce and trade, and insurance, with employers and workers in each instance having their own organizations.—United Press.

Czech Customs Union With Reich

Prague, Oct. 8.

It is reliably stated that the question of a possible customs and currency union between Czechoslovakia and Germany is at present being seriously discussed in political and financial circles here. It is not known whether the Cabinet has so far considered the matter and in any case no immediate official declaration on the subject is expected as the question is very complicated and it would be necessary to ascertain the German Government's attitude towards such a proposal. Business circles here however are inclined to believe that Germany would not be adverse to the suggestion.—Trans-Ocean.

Yankees Win Third Game of World Baseball Series

Only One More Victory Needed; Pearson Pitches Great Ball as Cubs Go Down by 5-2

New York, Oct. 8.

THE combination of inspired pitching by Monte Pearson and the sensational hitting of Joe Gordon, prize rookie, gave the New York Yankees their third straight victory in the 1938 World Series over the Chicago Cubs at the Yankee Stadium, 5-2, today. Pearson, delivering a fast, tricky ball showed perfect control and lasted the whole distance.

The husky right-handed hurler only recently emerged from the sick room but he gave no sign of weakness today as he dominated the mound. For four innings, Clay Bryant, southpaw twirler of the Cubs, gave a grand performance.

The booming bats of the world champions were silent as Bryant tossed the ball sharp and fast over the plate to cause the famed Yankee "Murderer's Row" to miss swinging. He did not yield a hit.

But the big bats of the Yankees started to connect in the disastrous fifth. It was after the Cubs had again drawn first blood through an error by Gordon in their half of the fifth inning, that the Yankees spurted.

Gordon, burning with indignation over his miscue which led to the Cubs scoring, broke up the game and forced Bryant to retire to the showers.

Gordon Homers

Smashing out a roaring home run, Gordon ignited the spark to a Yankee rally which led to victory.

With Gordon clouting out his four-bagger, Bryant seemed to collapse. He faltered on his next delivery. The smashing home run which brought the New York fans to their feet apparently broke his spirit. He became unnerved and the Yankees opened up their big guns.

Pearson followed Gordon with a single and then crossed the plate for a run on Bob Rolfe's single.

The two runs scored by the Yankees in their portion of the fifth inning gave them the lead, 2-1, and they never lost it.

In the sixth inning, Gordon again came to the fore to lead another Yankee spurt which resulted in another two runs. In scoring the two runs in the sixth, the Yankees won the game there and then.

With the bases loaded, Gordon rapped out a perfect single and chased in Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig.

His grand batting exhibition in the fifth and sixth innings converted him from a chump into a champ as New York baseball partisans cheered themselves hoarse, completely forgetting that a few minutes before they had groaned when Gordon muffed a grounder and allowed the Cubs to score.

Cubs Score First

The Cubs were the first to score. Stanley Hack banged out a double. Philip Cavaretta rapped out a bumpy grounder and though Gordon streaked after it he fumbled the ball badly, allowing Hack to sneak off to third base. Joe Marty then cracked out a grounder and Hack came home for the first run of the game.

The lead registered by the Cubs resulted in the fans giving vent to mixed feelings. While the majority of the spectators groaned because of Gordon's blunder, thousands of Chicago partisans cheered.

But the lead was so shortlived that it was forgotton before the fans had time to settle down again.

The bombing homer by Gordon placed the New Yorkers in a good frame of mind again and there were wild scenes after Pearson had scored on Rolfe's single.

It was in the sixth inning that the New Yorkers celebrated royally. Three runs in the lead, 4-1, the Yankees settled down confidently and played good ball, revealing sparkling fielding. But the Cubs fought hard and were determined.

Marty poled out a home run in the eighth inning but the four-ply hit proved of little help for the bases were empty at the time he hit the four-bagger.

Dickey Clouts One

Then Bill Dickey, star catcher of the Yankees, retaliated in the Yankee half of the eighth inning. He also crashed out a home run.

Play became rowdy toward the end of the tussle as the Cubs tried to stage a rally which never came about for the Yankees buckled down and crushed the Cubs the minute they showed the first sign of reviving.

Larry French, who took over the mound duties from Jack Russell, who relieved Bryant, almost staged a fist fight with George Selkirk.

French's furious fast-ball deliveries, which were wild, nearly precipitated a battle royal as Selkirk lost his temper after nearly being "beaned" and rushed out to the mound to tell French what he thought of his tactics. It took most of the members of the two teams to pull them apart, as they both were fighting mad and made threats about knocking each other's block off.

Pitching a screwball in the eighth inning, French sent over a delivery which was so dangerously close to Selkirk that the Yankee leftfielder was forced to duck and fall face first in the dirt.

Bitter Argument

He rose from the plate and rushed out to the mound to accuse French of purposely trying to hit him. This resulted in a bitter argument which was prevented from becoming a furious fist fight by the timely arrival of members of both teams.

A crowd of more than 50,000 packed the Yankee Stadium to see the third game of the series.

The fourth game will be staged tomorrow and if the Yankees win, and most scribes and fans think they will, the world series will be all over and the Yankees will become the first team in history to win the world title three consecutive years.

Joe McCarthy, hoping to win the series four straight, announced that he would either send in Charlie Ruffing, who won the first game for the Yankees, or Irving Hadley to hurl for the champions. The Cubs did not name their prospective pitcher.

Pearson hurled classy ball, fanning nine men. Bryant only struck out three and he handed out five free passes.

Race Meeting to Continue Today

Cordon Rouge Favoured to Win Seventh Race; First Saddling Bell at 11.30

By "CHING"

Racing today starts at 11.30 a.m. The day's programme includes a steeplechase and eleven races on the flat, one of which is a handicap at 1¼ mile open to the best ponies, and though the fields in many of the races may not be big ones, good and interesting racing is expected.

The first two races are at 1¼ mile to be run in sections "A" and "B" open to griffins that as yet have not won a race, and here White Birthday and Milkylight may both prove winners if in different sections, with the former my choice if they have to meet in the same section.

The third race is a seller and this may give Crimsonlight the opportunity of changing ownership when the winner comes under the auctioneer's care. The fourth race is the steeplechase and will be run immediately after the tiffin interval, which should be about 1.45. Only nine ponies entered and I doubt if even six of them will start—Mightylight should win.

The fifth race is for what may be classed as the Autumn Griffins, with winners barred. Distance is ¾ mile and this should suit Sandy, who I look upon as the most likely one to win.

The sixth race, at 1¼ mile, for Second Class ponies, looks fairly open, though Un Un Un may carry his 5 lb. extra and be the winner.

The Handicap

The star race of the afternoon should be the seventh, the Handicap for all ponies at 1¼ mile, as it has the good entry of 22, and seeing the light weights many of them have been given, a full quantity may want to weigh out if jockeys can be found to scale the weights as allotted.

The only pony asked to carry extra weight is Saturday's easy winner Cordon Rouge, and he gets off with the light penalty of 3 lb. only. The majority of the others in the race might start with a 10 lb. allowance and then not smell him. If he should start, he must win—if absent, and Gold Vase is there, he may win, though Merrylight, on his spring form, should hold this latter.

The eighth race is also open to all ponies and at 7 furlongs—and though such speedy ones at the distance as Night Express, Woodbridge, Going Haywire, and Busted Straight may all be in the field, I think Cherrylight will be able to account for all and add another win to his present good record.

Novice Jockeys Only

The ninth and tenth races are for Third Class ponies, and may be won by Bombardment if J. B. Lok prefers to take him out in the 7 furlong race instead of weighing out for Mayorship. The other race is at 9 furlongs and to be ridden by novice jockeys only. If G. R. Cheap weighs out for Goldenray he may win, though White Wine, if started, may shake him up. Memory Memories, who won on Saturday, may be out with a jockey on his back who gets a 10 lb. allowance and he might be good to place.

Crashes Mar Crystal Palace Road Racing

Abecassis Comes in First With Prince Second

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Oct. 9.

Violent skids and a number of crashes, though none was serious, were witnessed yesterday at the rain-soaked Crystal Palace road racing circuit, on which G. E. Abecassis, driving an Alfa, won the Imperial Trophy with a final speed of 52.08 miles an hour, over a course of 32 miles.

Prince Birabongse, of Siam, driving an E.R.A., came in second with a speed of 51.49 miles. However, he won the first heat of a distance of 20 miles with a speed of 57.01 miles an hour. Abecassis was second.

Arthur Dobson, in an E.R.A., won the second heat with a speed of 53.85 miles per hour.—Reuter.

Columbia Triumph Over Army

Minnesota Again Showing Power as College Teams Battle on Gridiron

New York, Oct. 8.

Pittsburgh, Minnesota and Columbia—these are the Big Three on the national Intercollegiate gridiron stage as the third week of the 1938 season rolls into history.

Coach Bernie Bierman's Golden Gophers, 1937 champions of the Big Ten and the outstanding contendor for the national championship in every season but one of the last seven years, pounded out a 7-0 decision over the Purdue Boilermakers today to serve notice on the Big Ten in particular and the world in general that the Minneapolis boys must be figured in the dope books as another "sweet" eleven.

In the Far East, Captain Marshall Goldberg, all-American halfback last year and touted for even greater honours this year, led his Pittsburgh Panthers to a 27-0 victory over tiny but mighty Duquesne.

The Duquesne Colonels have always been a thorn in Coach Jock Sutherland's tough hide, and two years ago spoiled Pittsburgh's dream of an undefeated season by eking out a 2-0 victory over their rivals from across the river. Pittsburgh later went on to the Rose Bowl championship classic, where it defeated Washington, but Goldberg and his Panthers have not forgotten the sting of that one defeat.

Lions Roar to Victory

Dashing Sid Luckman, all-Eastern halfback and one of the best runners and passers in the game today, drove the snarling Columbia Lions to a 20-18 victory over army to establish Lou Little's Morningside Heights squad as a definite threat in the East's drive for a Rose Bowl bid.

Army turned a light but fighting Columbia team back last year by the same score after Columbia led up to the last five minutes. But with a heavier line to open holes for Luckman, the Lions moved swiftly and precisely down the field to match every army score, and then add the extra points while the West Pointers muffed their three chances. Columbia also holds a 27-14 victory over Yale this year.

In the big intersectional game of the day, Ohio State, runner-up to Minnesota in the Big Ten last year and an outstanding threat this year, outfought Southern California, 7-0.

Cornhuskers Beaten

It was Ohio State's second win of the season, Coach Francis Schmidt's boys having dealt out a 6-0 defeat to Indiana last week.

In the mid-west, mighty Nebraska bowed to an unheralded Iowa State College aggregation, 8-7. The Cornhuskers, representatives of the Big Six, tossed away an apparent 7-6 win when the Iowans added a safety to their six points and then managed to stave off the Nebraska power drives. The Cornhusker's 16-6 defeat by Minnesota last week apparently had softened up the boys from Lincoln.

On the Pacific Coast, sports experts gasped when the University of California at Los Angeles ripped the hide off a highly-touted Husky from Washington, 13-0. Washington, conference champions two years ago and favoured to go to the Rose Bowl again, completely collapsed before a brilliant Bruin attack. It was the second upset of the season for Coach Jimmy Phelan's boys, Idaho having eked out a 12-12 last week at Seattle.

First Steeplechase of Autumn Season

Fourth Race at Today's Meeting at S.R.C.

By "THE CHASER"

The first steeplechase of the autumn season will be held this afternoon when the Shanghai Race Club will continue with their second day of the sixth extra meeting, and the time of the race is set at 1.45 p.m. It is the fourth race of the day or the first race after the lunch interval.

Although the distance, from the Loong-fei Gate once round and in, would suit the majority of the ponies entered, the latest news is that only four of the nine entered will take the course.

Merry Memories, Port Bradda, Smokylight, Steve Brodie and White Major are non-starters and the field will therefore be: Airplane (R. Morgan 148), Mightylight (C. B. Moller 160), Saucylight (R. B. Moller 161) and White Scamp (A.A. White 160).

With only four ponies in the race I cannot see how it will be at all interesting, except from the riders' point of view.

The Cire stable is represented by two starters, Mightylight and Saucylight, and on the strength of his recent performance I don't think Mightylight can lose the race unless he should come down, which I don't think he will do as he is such a sure jumper. Alec White should have quite a good ride on White Scamp who is fairly fit at the moment but the best he can do is probably to run to second. Saucylight is one of these "so so" ponies and as the other starter Airplane is said to be definitely off colour, he should run third.

Cambridgeshire Favourite Raps Tendon

London, Oct. 9.

The favourite for the Cambridgeshire Stakes, Michoumy, has rapped a tendon, causing a slight filling.

This prevented a workout yesterday, but the colt will go to Newmarket on Monday, and it is hoped that he will be fit to run in Wednesday's race.—Reuter.

Latest Betting

London, Oct. 9.

Owing to adverse rumours regarding Michoumy, the following is the latest London betting on the Cambridgeshire:

10-1 Edgehill
11-1 Zaimis
12-1 Khasnadar and Domaha
14-1 Quartier Maitre, Bombay Duck and Ramtapa
18-1 Couvert
20-1 Le Ksar and Sir Tam
25-1 Moody and Golden Severeign.—Reuter.

Home Soccer Result Correction

Owing to a misprint, the result of the football match between Bournemouth & B. A. and Cardiff City in the third divisions (southern) of the English League on Saturday was given in yesterday's issue of the "North-China Daily News" as 9-0. The correct result of this match was 0-0. The result of the local soccer match between the Savoia and the Police on Saturday was 2-0 and not 2-1 as previously announced.

Lawn Bowls Club Celebrates Twenty-fifth Anniversary

S.L.B.C., Recs Hold Closing Day Programmes; Police Win Hongkew Park Shield

UNDER perfect weather conditions yesterday, the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary and closing day and the Shanghai Recreation Club also closed their summer games season. Apart from these two functions the final of the Hongkew Park Championship Shield was played off, the Police defeating the Junior Golf Club. Another important match of the day was the Singles final of the Junior Golf Club, played in the morning, when R. H. Miles beat R. S. Duff by 21 shots to 5.

A most successful day was seen on the greens of the Lawn Bowls Club, play starting at 10.15 a.m. with a game of rinks which was won by W. J. Ward (skip), T. Crosthwaite, A. H. Childs and T. M. Yates, the excellent play of Crosthwaite being commented upon.

An excellent alfresco tiffin was served at 1 p.m. when Silver Jubilee brochures, attractively compiled with a summary of the Club's history, were distributed.

Mr. W. J. Monk, the President of the Club, in a speech at the close of tiffin stated that on account of the limited space there had been no formal invitations for the day's festivities. The few guests there, however, were heartily welcomed. As would be seen from the Souvenir Cards, the Club was fortunate in still having two of the original members on its strength, Mr. Harold Browett who, unfortunately, owing to indisposition was not able to be present, and Mr. Donald MacDonald, a member of the General Committee and active member. The traditions of the Club had been upheld during its existence, namely, good sportsmanship and friendliness and they could again claim to have had a happy and successful season.

New Members Welcomed

A special welcome was given to the new members and reference was also made to the high standard of play in the newly founded 'Griffins' Cup'. The President also congratulated his fellow members upon having brought back the Mercury Cup into the Club's possession and also referred to the achievements of Mr. H. Wallace who had won the Association Open Singles and also the equivalent competition in the club itself. It was also pointed out that Mr. W. J. Ward, by winning the Wednesday evening competition, had now won every possible championship in the Club.

Mr. J. Munroe expressed on behalf of all members appreciation to the officers and committee for the arrangements which had been made for the celebration of the twenty-first anniversary.

At the conclusion of the afternoon's programme Mrs. E. Jacobs presented the season's prizes and trophies. Before asking Mrs. Jacobs to make the presentations Mr. Monk took the opportunity of welcoming all lady members and hoped that they would turn out in greater numbers in future. Mrs. Goodman had been asked to officiate at the opening ceremony but unfortunately had been unable to attend. Souvenirs of the occasion were presented to Mrs. Jacobs and Mrs. Goodman.

One unique feature of the prize distribution were the two woods presented to the winner and runner-up of the Novices Cup by Mr. H. Browett.

Before the assembly broke up, Mrs. Sinclair, on behalf of the ladies, thanked the members and committee of the Club for the use of their greens during the season

The prizes were awarded as follows:—

Club Singles Championship.—H. Wallace; 2, T. S. Parry.
Club Singles Handicap.—T. S. Parry; 2, E. R. Harmer.

Police Beat J.G.C.

On the greens of the Clube Lusitano the Police did not have a very difficult task in beating the Junior Golf Club in the final of the Hongkew Park Championship, taking the lead from the beginning. They won on three rinks, the only winning skip of the Juniors being R. S. Duff.

At the conclusion of the game the Shield was presented to the winners by Mr. P. Ephgrave, the Secretary of the Lawn Bowls Association, who congratulated the Police upon retaining the trophy and stated that the shield could not be in safer custody.

Miles Defeats Duff

A somewhat one-sided game was played in the morning at the Junior Golf Club for the Singles Championship of that institution, R. H. Miles beating R. S. Duff by 21 shots to 5 in a game which lasted 15 ends. Duff opened the score with a single but only added four more ends of the same value to his score throughout the game, Miles taking the other ends which included a four at the 11th and 20th:—

Recs Closing Day

The Lawn Bowls Section of the Recreation Club, who this year celebrated their fiftieth anniversary, had an equally successful closing day. Selected rinks were played in the morning, after which tiffin was provided, and a full programme occupied the afternoon.

In the evening Mr. G. Akerman, the President, before calling upon Mrs. G. Manley to present the prizes stated that the Recs had had a very successful bowling year, having won the Association League Championship by a big margin. He again reminded members that this was the last year that Mr. T. G. Main, a staunch supporter of the Club, would be with them, and wished this gentleman many, many years of happy retirement.

At the conclusion of the presentation of prizes Mr. T. J. Main asked Mrs. G. Manley to accept a bouquet of flowers in appreciation of the duty she had so gracefully performed. He added that he sincerely regretted his severance from the Club, having first joined as far back as 1905 and he could safely say that the happiest days of his life had been spent there.

1937 Club Pairs.—F. O. Madar and G. Madar; runners-up.—A. McLean and B. Shirazee.

S.V.C. Sergeants' Mess Holds Shoot

By kind permission of Col. J. W. Hornby, the Corps Sergeants' Mess, S.V.C., held a very enjoyable and successful rifle meeting yesterday morning. In spite of a tricky wind, some excellent scores were obtained. The scores were:

Sgt. Kuhn, American Coy.	70
Sgt. Joseph, Phil. Coy.	63
Sgt. Stone, "B" Coy.	58
Sgt. England "B" Coy.	56
Sgt. Marques, Port. Coy.	50

Sgt Villaflor, Phil. Coy.	18
C.S.M. Dearn, Signals	15

Plate Team Shoots

The High Guns were Sgt. England (British rifle) and Sgt. Kuhn (American rifle).

The Plate Team Shoots provided much amusement and keen rivalry. The British team, shooting with Enfield Rifles was as follows: England, Stone, Marques, Pringle, McDonald, while the American team included Spunt, Kuhn, Joseph, Villaflor, Marmorat. The British team won.

The Americans then sportingly challenged the winning team to a reshoot with the British team using American rifles and the American team using British rifles with the result that the tables were turned by a convincing margin.

Goal for the Saints

Late Barrage Wins Softball Game

All-Stars Come Up from Behind to Overpower Marines at C.C.C.

Staging a timely rally at the end of the eighth inning, the All Star civilians overpowered the Second Battalion, regimental champions, in a special softball game at the Columbia Country Club yesterday afternoon by a score of 6-3.

The Marines put up a great fight and were leading most of the way when their star moundsman, the left-handed Depizol, tossed brilliantly and almost handcuffed the civilians. It was not until a five-hit barrage in that eventful eighth inning that the All Stars turned defeat into victory. Depizol's balls were fast but the opponents gradually found the answer as the game proceeded.

In all, the civilians collected no less than fourteen hits while the service men garnered only seven off C. C. "Dud" Squires, who again proved that he is the best pitcher in Shanghai today in spite of Depizol's fine reputation during the Marine League in which he won several no-hit no-run games.

Squires Hit by Marines

Squires was taken by surprise after two away in the first inning when Bigina lammed out a low fly over second base into Rover Nance's territory. Depizol followed suit with a similar shot over Second Baseman Bernard's head. Then Chapa cleaned the bases with a long fly into left field and put the Battalion team two runs ahead.

Daniels got the first civilian hit into centre-field in the same inning but could do nothing to score. Both pitchers were tight in their delivery. Demaio hit one for the Marines in the third.

Three runs were chalked up in the fourth, one for the Second Battalion and two for the All Stars Depizol walked and reached third when First Baseman Fielden could not catch Deegan wild throw from third on Chapa's grounder. Ferrell clouted into left garden to score Depizol.

Two errors on the part of the Marine infielders enabled both Nance and Bernard to tally.

Staging a determined rally before it was too late, Deegan grounded a roller to second and was declared safe at first when Tinery made a poor runs. Nance grounded to Depizol stealing third. Huebner rose to the occasion with a long blow towards centre, threreby chasing both runners home for the tying and leading runs. Nance grounded to Depizol but the pitcher heaved wilding to first, allowing Nance to reach second base and Huebner the home plate. Bernard hit to First Baseman Johnson who could not stop the ball and fumbled. While this was going on Nance streaked across the rubber and ended a four-run comeback to win the contest.

Foxx Dominates Final Baseball Statistics

Crosetti Biggest Thief Of Bases in League

New York, Oct. 8.

Jimmy Foxx, star powerhouse first baseman of the Boston Red Sox, staged one of the greatest comebacks this season and for the second time won the American League batting crown with an average of .349, the final unofficial baseball statistics for 1937 revealed today.

The chunky first sacker registered an improvement of .064 compared with last year's average.

Taft Wright, rookie Washington Senator playing his first year in the major leagues, participated in 100 games and created a sensation by turning in an average of .348.

Jeff Heath, another rookie who plays for the Cleveland Indians, averaged .340. The rookie outfielder also was responsible for a major surprise.

Best of Decade

Ernie Lombardi, star catcher of the Cincinnati Reds, snatched the National League batting title with an average of .342. He became the first member of the Reds to win the National League crown in more than a decade.

Bob Grove, ace hurler of the Boston Red Sox, won the American League pitching title despite a "dead" arm in the last month of the season with fourteen wins and four losses.

Charlie Ruffing of the New York Yankees placed second with 21 wins and seven defeats.

Billy Lee, leader of the Chicago Cubs pitching staff, led the National League moundsmen with 22 triumphs and nine losses. Bob Klinger of the Pittsburgh Pirates was second with twelve wins and five defeats.

Foxx Invaluable

Jimmy Foxx set the pace in the American League for runs batted in, scoring 174 and Joe Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals and last year's National League batting champion topped the major circuit with 122.

In the American League Joe Vosmik of the Boston Red won out in the hits by touching pitchers for 201 hits, while McCormick was the best of the Nationals with 160.

Joe Cronin scored 51 doubles and the veteran manager of the Boston Red Sox took the American League title, the National League championship going to Medwick with 47.

Jeff Heath scored more triples than any man, eighteen, and took the American League prize, while Johnny Mize was the tops in triples among the senior circuit with sixteen.

Hank Greenberg ran away with the home run honours, the Tigers first baseman knocking out 58 four-baggers to fall short by two of Babe Ruth's world record of 60 set in 1927. But the 58 were sufficient to give the American League home run title.

Frankie Crosetti of the New York Yankees took the prize for stolen bases, pilfering 27 bags, while Stan Hack of the Chicago Cubs led the "lifting" brigade in the National League with sixteen stolen bases to his credit.—United Press.

Local Champions Retain Title

Carson and Mrs. Reader-Harris Capture Mixed Doubles Final Easily

By a score of 6-2 and 6-4, Lewis D. Carson and Mrs. M. Reader-Harris experienced little difficulty in retaining the Shanghai Mixed Doubles Championship at the expense of Harry K. F. Li and Miss Florie Ouei on the Association court yesterday before a small crowd of spectators.

The Chinese gained the right to play in the final by eliminating J. H. du Pac de Marsoulies and Mrs. R. Fletcher earlier in the day as the two sides continued their fight which was postponed from Saturday when the scores were tied at 9-7 and 6-8.

Li and Miss Ouei broke du Pac's service in the opening game and then took a two-nil lead when Li won his delivery. Mrs. Fletcher won her service and then tied the score by breaking Miss Ouei's service. Then the Chinese pulled themselves together to win a string of three games to emerge on top of a 6-4 score, making the final result stand 9-7, 6-8, 6-4.

The superiority of Carson and Mrs. Reader Harris was shown as soon as the final got under way. Breaking Li's service, the champions got off to a big lead of 4-nil before Li was able to win. Carson dropped his service game for 4-2 but the leaders easily took the first set by 6-2.

Nonchalant Form

Showing nonchalant form, Carson started slowly in the second set to permit Li to annex the initial game. The Chinese could not follow it up and yielded the next two. In the fourth game on Mrs. Reader Harris' service, Miss Ouei suddenly found her grip and retrieved sturdily. Li was strong at the net, volleying and smashing. Carson drove two shots into the net and he lost after deuce for a 2-all deadlock.

Picking up, the Chinese started to offer some real opposition when Li succeeded in his second service game. A long game followed in which Carson was seen to be reasserting himself.

With Mrs. Reader Harris also in determined form, the two title-winners played in real earnest and managed to win three games in a row before Li intervened to bring the score to 5-4. The tenth and last game was again served by Carson, who literally walked through it to conclude the series.

Saints Go Down Before Recs

School Football Team Give Way in Second Half as Club Gain 7-2 Triumph

WHEN the S.F.X. met the S.R.C. at the Canidrome yesterday, the spectators were provided with a very good display of football. Both the teams showed spirit and dash almost throughout the entire first division league game, the S.F.X. weakening near the conclusion to lose 7-2. Although not actually falling to pieces, the S.F.X. appeared to be losing heart after about 35 minutes of the second half, when the score stood in their opponents favour at 5-2.

The teams at the beginning of the game appeared to be evenly matched, both being obviously quite fit, and although the game was played in broiling sunshine, it did not appear to weaken their stamina, each team alternately taking the offensive and finishing with pot shots at goal.

The S.F.X. made a fine start in the first two minutes with a concerted run through, sending a shot at goal which nicely beat Altclass, the S.R.C. goalie. With the ball on the move again the play became general up and down the field, each forward line, after clever passing across and back, finally being confronted with very determined defence who in turn, made fine clearance shots.

Recs Attack

After fifteen minutes the S.R.C. took the offensive with determination. It was noticeable, that the main features throughout the game, were the long and fairly accurate passes by both teams, and the speed with which they were carried out. Another noticeable point, one which probably gives the reason of the final score of 7—2, was the lack of finish among the School's forward line. Although they stormed their opponents goal just as frequently as the S.R.C. attacked the School's goal, they could never crown their efforts with a conversion. F. Foyn, the S.F.X. captain, throughout showed fine spirit and dash and frequently made solo efforts to beat the ever watchful Altclass in goal, not ingloriously failing in every case.

After 26 minutes of play, the S.R.C. forced the ball well down to their opponents half, and during some loose ball play, Aldeguer received a high pass from Favacho, and headed the ball into the net. Following hard upon this success, the S.R.C. made a concerted move down which ended with a fine pass to Favacho, who lost no time in converting making the score 2-1.

The S.F.X., seemingly not a bit discouraged, forced the play down, but a free kick against them just in front of the S.R.C. goal, gave away a good opportunity to convert.

After forty minutes play, the S.F.X. were awarded a penalty kick which was taken by Stangard, who converted with a fine shot bringing the score to 2 each. This score remained over into the second half, but was finally broken when Favacho beat Kabbert the S.F.X. goalie giving the "Recs" a lead of 3 goals to 2 over their opponents.

The game up to this period had been very fast, with both teams showing speed and stamina, looking obviously very fit. There was no lack of effort on either side, although the S.F.X. after 30 minutes of play in the second half, appeared to slacken somewhat and Aldeguer, with a fine dribbling run converted, giving his team their fifth goal. Shortly after this, Burenin, the Recs centre forward, increased the lead by sending in a shot which beat Kabbert and brought the score up to 6-2.

The S.R.C., now obviously had the game well in hand, and a few minutes from the finish they were awarded a penalty kick, which was taken by Symons who converted, making the final score of S.R.C.-7 S.F.X.-2.

S.F.X.—W. Kabbert, H. Stangard, S. Borodin, T. Kapustin, G. Greenberg, H. Garwood, F. Foyn (Capt.), S. Schultz, M. Karolich, W. Petterson, F. Edwards.

S.R.C.—Altclass, Golkin, Greenberg, Hart-Baker, Oppenheim, Symons (Capt.), Aldeguer, Markitant Burenin, Madar and Favacho.

30,000 See Scots Beat Ireland

Scotland Drives in One Goal in Each Period of Exciting Contest

Belfast, Oct. 9.

Before a crowd of 30,000 spectators at Windsor Park yesterday, including a large contingent of Scotsmen, Scotland won the first International soccer match of the season by defeating Ireland by two goals to nil.

The Scotsmen scored once in each half. The weather was far from ideal. It was overcast at the start, and in the second half, it rained heavily. The ground was heavy.

Before the match the players were introduced to the Irish "Linen Queen," who handed each a box of linen handkerchiefs.

Scotland won the toss and immediately threatened, but O'Mahoney put up a strong defence. Both sides missed scoring chances by inches, and corners were given by both teams to relieve the pressure.

Magnificent Saves

The two goalies were in magnificent form. Dawson was called on to make his first save after 32 minutes, and in the next minute Delaney scored from a pass by Walker.

It was pouring when the second half began. After the Scottish forwards had dribbled down the field, the Irish had a spell of attacking, but they found the Scottish defence impenetrable. Brown gave away a corner, and Walker put the kick into the net when the Irish defence failed to clear.

Spirited Rally

The Irish attacked spasmodically, but failed to finish their movements.

Towards the end they staged a spirited rally, Brown and Martin especially causing a lot of worry, but the Scottish defence successfully held out.—Reuter.

British Market Report

London, Oct. 8.

The renewed demand for dollars in the exchange market during the past week, particularly from France, sent the rate up to 4.78 3/16, compared with 4.79. Francs were rigidly controlled, and today closed practically unchanged at 178.93.

The weakness of sterling caused a further rise of 4½d. in the price of gold to 145/4½d., at which level £747,000 was sold by the British Exchange Fund. The price included a ½d. premium over the American shipping parity.

Silver improved 1/16d. to 19 9/16d. for cash and 19 7/16 for forward. There was a little Indian buying, while supplies were limited.

Discount rates were firmer at 11/16 to ¾ per cent. for three months fine commercial bills.

Week-end money was quoted at ⅝ per cent. against bonds and at a ½ per cent. against approved bills.—Reuter.

Bombay Cotton Market

Bombay, Oct. 8.

There was more activity evident in the futures market during the past week, due to the removal of the European political tension and a cyclonic storm reported off the Bombay Coast resulting in heavy rainfall and causing apprehension of possible crop damage.

In the spot market there was a very little increase in activity, while export inquiry was very slow although there is a possibility of Liverpool being more interested shortly. Actual business was negligible.—Reuter.

U.S. Commodities

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, Oct. 8.

The cotton market early declined on pre-Bureau liquidation, lower Liverpool advices, profit taking and realizing. Later, prices partially rallied on covering and higher Bombay cables. Finally, the market again weakened on the "Bureau" report being construed as bearish, renewed liquidation and foreign and New Orleans selling and closed barely steady, with quotations ranging from 9 to 14 points down.

Prices in the rubber market were encouraged by active Wall Street advices, favourable business prospects and a firm and active commission house demand, which absorbed dealer offerings under the leadership of London interests. At the final bell, gains of 16 to 25 points were recorded.

Wheat prices in Chicago ruled narrow and quiet on a less optimistic Southern Hemisphere crop, the firmness of securities which induced professional support and moisture deficiency complaints in both the Spring and Winter wheat territories, which were offset by unresponsive cables and a limited foreign demand. Finally, the market eased on realizing. At the final bell, losses of ¼ to⅜ of a cent were registered.

The undertone of the sugar market was steady on light scattered buying, but trading was quiet as operators were awaiting developments. At the close quotations ranged from a ½ point down to a ½ point up.

London Money Market

London, Oct. 8.

With the return of more normal conditions the monetary position during the past week was definitely easier, and borrowers are now obtaining loans on term ruling before the political crisis arose.

Following the downward trend of money, discount rates rapidly declined, with the result that the Government were able to allot its £50,000,000 Treasury Bill offerings at an average rate of 14/3d. against 25/- paid last week.—Reuter.

New York Stocks

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, Oct. 8.

Stock prices on Wall Street today finished with gains up to about 2 points, with the market absorbing considerable profit-taking. Many issues touched new highs for the year. The turnover today amounted to 1,110,000 shares.—Reuter.

Dow-Jones Summary

By Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

Traders on the Stock Exchange today appeared to be more cautious. Favourable factors included: expectations of steel mill operations touching a new high; an upswing in major commodities; encouraging prospects for the retail trade and the belief that industry will soon cross the 1937 levels. Unfavourable factors were: labour troubles in the automobile industry; the weakening of petroleum prices; and, the belief that a technical market correction is overdue. Steel circles estimate that the industry will be out of the red when operations touch between 55 and 60 per cent. of capacity.

General Position in Czechoslovakia

Not so Desperate as at First Widely Believed

Prague, Oct. 8.

Economic experts here consider that the general position will not be so desperate as was at first widely believed. It is admitted that one or two important industries will be almost enirely lost, or greatly diminished, but Czechoslovakia, it is thought, will be rid of certain export industries in the frontier districts, which constantly needed subsidizing, while spas like Marienbad and Karlsbad have recently proved to be a loss rather than a profit.

The biggest single loss will be the Brown Coal Mines, producing 16,000,000 tons annually, but as Germany has an export surplus of coal, it is assumed that the Bohemian brown coal will still be available to the Republic.

Only 37 per cent. of the famous Bohemian Glass Works remains to Czechoslovakia, while almost the whole porcelain industry goes to Germany.

On the other hand, however, the crisis years 1933-35 led to the closing down of many works in the frontier districts, and many works have been built in the centre of the country since.—Rehter.

Cotton Crop Report

Washington, Oct. 8.

The Crop Reporting Board of the United States Department of Agriculture issues the following estimates in its fourth crop report of the 1938 season. The Bureau of the Census of the Department of Commerce also issues its fifth ginning report of the season as given below:—

Season:	Production 500 lb. bales	Yield per acre pounds	Ginnings prior to Oct. 1 running bales
1938	12,212,000	221.1	6,578,000
1937	17,573,000	249.3	8,260,000
1936	11,609,000	186.9	6,032,000
1935	11,464,000	191.5	4,232,000
1934	9,443,000	170.9	4,965,000

The September report indicated: Production 11,825,000 bales; condition 65.0 per cent; Yield yer acre 214.1 and: Ginnings prior to Sept. 16, 3,632,,000 bales.

Final crop totals of previous seasons were as follow:—

Season:	Production bales	Yield per acre pounds	Ginnings bales
1937	18,946,000	266.9	18,242,000
1936	12,399,000	197.6	12,141,000
1935	10,638,000	184.2	10,420,000
1934	9,636,000	171.6	9,472,000

The next ginning report will be issued on Oct. 25 and the fifth crop report on November 8.—Reuter.

Berlin Bourse

Berlin, Oct. 8.

The share market was at the close of the week not very uniform in trend but changes in price levels either way were only small. Small buying orders from bank customers were on hand when the bourse opened but on the other hand operators showed a disposition to unload. As the result of further buying a firmer tendency however developed later. Special interest was shown in the agreements reached with Turkey by Reichs Minister of Economic Affairs Dr. Funk. No very strong definite tendency however developed in the course of the day.

Business in fixed interest securities was extraordinarily quiet at the week end with no great changes in price being recorded.

Call money stood at 2⅜ to 2⅝ per cent.—Trans-Ocean.

W. W. Jacobs is Sorry He is 75

Wrote Because he Liked it Helped his Bank Account

Talking of famous writers, as his immortal character, the night-watchman, would say, Mr. W. W. Jacobs has reached his 75th birthday.

Reserved and gently quizzical, this humorist, whose short stories of seafaring folk have delighted two generations, admitted his age to a correspondent of the "Evening News" recently, saying: "Yes, I am sorry to say—I am 75. I only wish it were 57."

As he sits in his neat little flat over-looking Lord's cricket ground, you are aware of two personalities: The carefully parted, white hair, the trim, blue suit, the methodical manner all belong to the civil servant in the Post Office savings bank that he once was; but when he speaks, a twinkle comes into his eyes, and he reveals himself as a man of words.

At Wapping

I first made my acquaintance of the characters about whom I wrote, he said, when my father who was a wharf manager took a house overlooking the Thames on South Devon Wharf, Wapping.

I was 23 at the time and working in the Post Office building in Queen Victoria-street. It was not for another seven years, however, that I wrote my first book of stories, 'Many Cargoes,' which ran into 38 editions, and is still selling.

Except for a short story three years ago, Mr. Jacobs has not written anything for a dozen years, and this has led to the legend that he does not like writing.

When I am asked about my 'methods' and my 'technique,'" he said, "I quote people a line from a farce I once saw in which the master is rating his servant, saying, 'When you work do you always twiddle your thumbs like that, Johnson' to which Johnson replied, 'No, Sir, sometimes I twiddle them the other way, like this!'

"Nonsense"

You see, I don't believe in all this nonsense which is talked about writing. I have written because I have liked it and because it helped my bank account—I have never gone in for all this psychological analysis business. Writing and humour must, I believe, be a quite unconscious art.

Most famous of his thrillers is "The Monkey's Paw," which Mr. Jacobs also turned into a fine one-act play. Will he give us some more companions to the delightful "The Skipper's Wooing," "Light Freights," "The Lady of the Barge," "Deep Waters," and others?

I asked him, and he answered simply: "Yes, I think so—if I get a brand new idea. I am living in hope."

Czechoslovakia's Losses

London, Oct. 8.

Based on the 1937 export table percentages, Czechoslovakia's exports of almost twelve milliard crowns will be reduced by at least four milliard crowns as a result of the occupation by the Reich of the Sudeten areas and by the Poles of other territories, according to the newspaper Economist.

The country, the newspaper points out, will lose 762,000, or one-third of its total industrial workers.

The textile industry, it is stated, will lose 190,000, or 52 per cent. of those employed in that branch, while 48 per cent. of the mine workers will be left in the ceded territories.—Reuter.

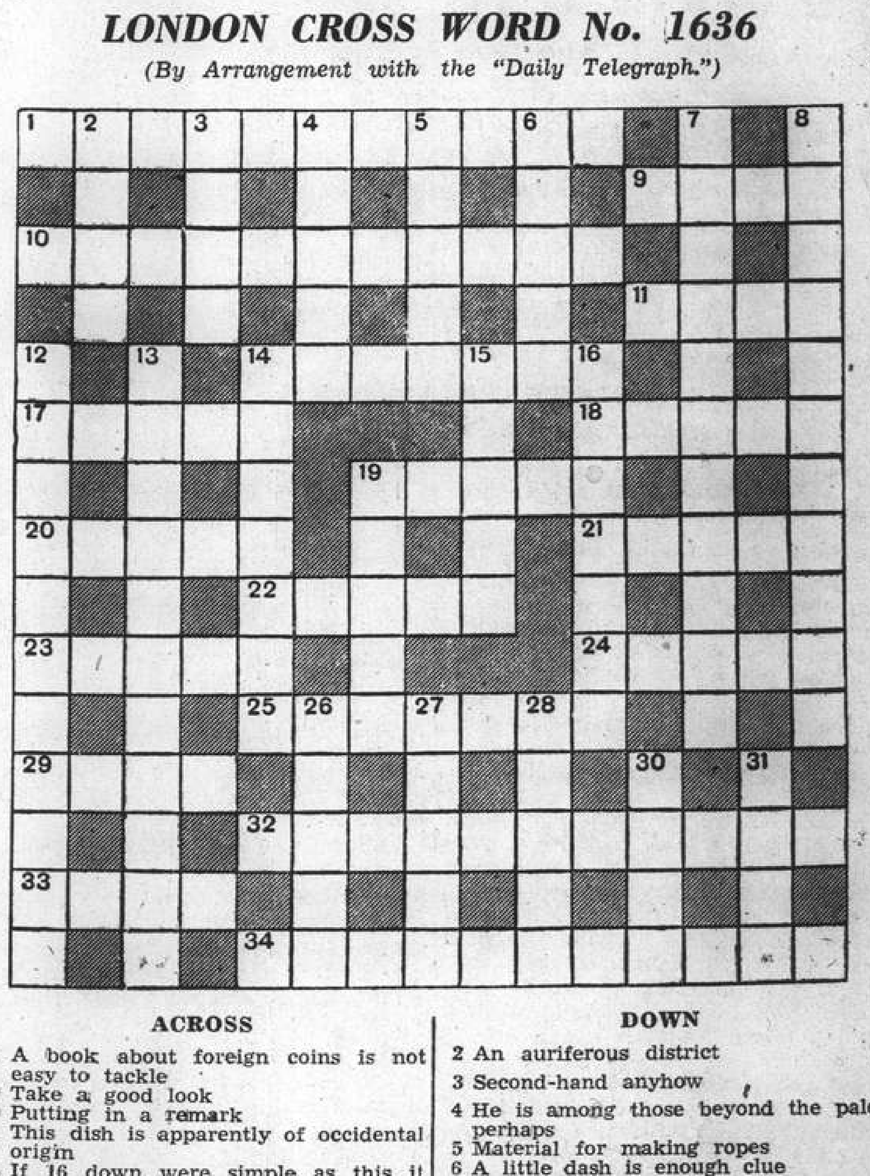
LONDON CROSS WORD No. 1636

(By Arrangement with the "Daily Telegraph.")



ACROSS

1 A book about foreign coins is not easy to tackle
9 Take a good look
10 Putting in a remark
11 This dish is apparently of occidental origin
14 If 16 down were simple as this it would lose three letters
17 Famous actor
18 The wise men of the Anglo-Saxon parliament
19 He was swallowed by a snake for tea
20 What you probably have in hand at the present
21 A croquet term
23 Tennyson wrote more than one
23 A great epic
24 This call is mainly nothing after all
25 Any 9 across might make this wine
29 A good dog of nursery days
32 Dogmatic
33 Invalid
34 Being present at a certain number of balls

DOWN

2 An auriferous district
3 Second-hand anyhow
4 He is among those beyond the pale perhaps
5 Material for making ropes
6 A little dash is enough clue
7 By way of experiment
8 The place to tell the man with the horses to get to the side of the road
12 No, those who are guilty of this crime need not be physically strong
13 "Pals cycle it" (anag.)
14 A big step over something
15 Feminine name
16 Description of a dark person bashful about a skin blemish
19 Scene of a battle in Ireland
26 A little bird, you can see it after the seed
27 A reformed Siren
28 An empty place to shun
30 Early O.T. character
31 This after is in the future
